THE INDIVIDUAL IN THE SCHOOL COMMUNITY

The 1980's, a decade which for so long has seemed a distant future era, is rapidly arriving and while not presenting a world of space technology and total subservience to the State as many writers predicted, still offers a real challenge to those who wish to pursue their own interests and develop an individual identity.

Perhaps the most difficult thing for any student to do whilst at school is to speak up for, or actually do something, which has never been attempted before. He is under continual scrutiny from both his peers and his school, and to make such an attempt places his credibility in jeopardy. It is the individual thinker who suffers from these pressures and in some ways such pressures are increasing; yet as we approach the decade of "Big Brother" and conformism, every attempt should be made to protect the freedom of thought of individuals, both within and outside the school. Our society tends to shun these people and, as much as we may dislike to admit it, we cannot deny the fact that social unawareness, and even instances of persecution of those who differ in anyway, are apparent within the Christ Church community: fortunately not on a scale as large as in some other communities.

Our major aim as the 1979 Prefects was to reduce such feelings within the school and our results have been marked with creditable success. We have attempted to influence all members of the school into accepting people as they are rather than trying to make them what they consider they ought to be. The Prefects meet every week and once a month are joined by Year representatives. As well as discussing minor school policy and activities, we quietly discussed those members of the school who we felt had problems which prevented them from fitting into school life. In most cases it was due to their difference in approach to some aspect of school life, and the problem has been solved by a Prefect and/or a member of staff informally helping and watching the situation. At this point I must thank other Prefects for their help in this function, for I feel that this is the most important and fulfilling task which the Prefects, in their limited capacity, can undertake. On the other side of the coin there was a necessity to consider those members of the school who because of antagonism, hindered other students from fitting in. Regrettably, we have a few students who usually attempt to denigrate others to disguise their own inadequacies. These people were also discussed at meetings and some conclusions regarding the reasons for their actions, and how they could be helped, were made, for it was obvious that these people were also having difficulties in adjusting to school life.

THE SENIORS

Front G.J. Pritchard, D.M. Edge, D.B. Cameron, A.D.J. Watts, M.A. Knox, P.S. Michael, T.J. Flaherty, E.C.A. Sinclair, Mr. P.M. Moyes (Headmaster).

Still on the theme of individuality, there appears to be no reason why students at Christ Church should not be able to expand their interests with the diverse selection of clubs and societies, coupled with the relatively large range of subjects available for study at all levels. However this year, more than in previous years, vast pressure has been placed on students to excel in academic areas and it has resulted in many students being forced to discontinue their outside interests. Dramatic, musical and other activities, which are regarded by many as an essential part of education, have seen a drastic, sometimes complete, reduction in patronage from Year 12's who previously have been the powerhouse of these activities. Although, to achieve a good academic record is important, an individual can only expand his personality through participation in cultural areas, and to deprive him of this opportunity will only cause him to resist his academic commitments. An ideal situation is one where his schoolwork and outside activities are allowed to co-exist, to a point where he is both suitably qualified to pursue a career once he has left school, and able to take part in one or more interests, resulting in a greater degree of cultural awareness.

I look to the future Prefects in pursuing the aim of satisfying the individual's needs, for, if fulfilled, it will undoubtedly lead to a school in which tolerance is apparent, and the needs of other people are recognized.

RETIREMENT

P.E.M. Holmes

For many years now the school has been fortunate to have Pat Holmes on its staff and it was with sadness that his colleagues farwelled him at the end of First term. Pat we will remember as the gentle man who sang his happiness in corridor and classroom; who drew ships that sailed content, as he did on the turbulent waters of the day; who knew that cricket was life, and life, on land at least, was just a game of limited overs. That he taught geography extremely well was incidental. That he brought the school 1st XI to its first Darlot Cup is also incidental (though memorable). Boys and teachers alike gained a love of life from his company. We should not have worried that Pat might not find his niche. He is now teaching cricket in his beloved England. With respect and affection we send our best wishes to him.

The Pat Holmes Trophy

A staff collection has resulted in a new trophy. This will be awarded in the Middle School for Sportsmanship — "Playing the game as it should be played".

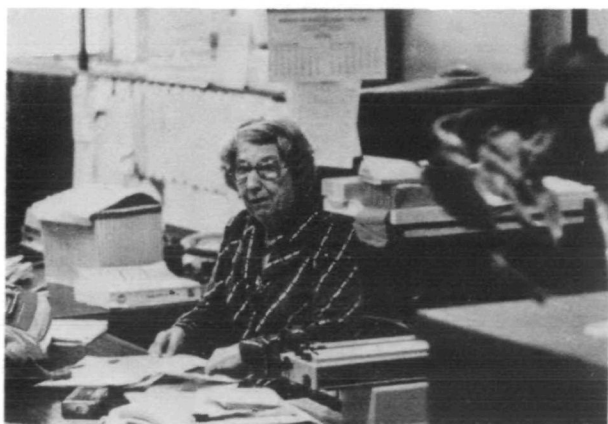

THE BURSAR'S SECRETARY RETIRES

After seventeen and a half years of loyal service to the school in which she very ably held together the many facets of the job of Bursar's secretary, Mrs. Jessie Munt retires at the end of this year

A Queenslander by birth, Mrs. Munt saw service in Palestine and Australia as a Voluntary Aid in the Australian Army Medical Service during the World War. She married after the war and came to live in W.A. with her husband in 1946. She still lives in the house they bought in Dalkeith in that year.

A tireless worker for the church, she came to us with a proven record of hard work and dedication to the community. In those early days, office space was at a premium, every financial record was handwritten or typed, there was no such thing as a copy machine and hand messages were the only means of contact, there being no internal telephone system. As finance became available and office procedures were modernised, she cheerfully learnt to operate ledger machines, offset printing machines, telephone boards and the like.

Nothing was too much trouble to her and office hours were an unknown thing. She has indeed made her mark in the school and we wish her a long and happy, well earned, retirement.

AKOS KOVACS

The "Gay Hussar" of C.C.G.S.

Akos Kovacs was appointed to the Physical Education position in 1955. He was recommended to the Headmaster by Dr. Duras from the Melbourne University, after having graduated with a Dip. Phys. Ed. in 1954.

Upon arriving at the school he took up residence in Romsey boarding house (now better known as Parry House) and set about the task of establishing a physical education course that the school could well be proud of. Soon after he commenced duties the Memorial Hall was completed and this building was to be the centre of all phys. ed; basketball and gymnastic activities for the next seventeen years.

In May 1957 Akos moved into Queenslea boarding house (now known as Walters). He continued as an assistant housemaster until 1969 when he left to be married.

There are undoubtedly many young old boys of the school who were suitably impressed by the "Kosh" discipline in and around the boarding houses. Some learnt how to sing Hungarian washing songs, while the odd one even managed to borrow Akos' only means of transport, a sturdy old bike, to visit a girlfriend at night.

It has often been said that a good teacher will always have at his disposal a ready supply of excellent teaching aids and in this regard Akos is no exception. Since his appointment to the school he has assisted with some valuable contributions to his department. He has always endeavoured to set up a functional gymnasium, consequently many pieces of the gymnastic apparatus have been made by him during what little free time he has had.

For some seven or eight years he cared for and attended to the swimming pool in the same way as he cared for his gym equipment.

The term "gymnastrada" is foreign to the present school population. However, Akos introduced these evenings of performance to the school in 1956 and, in all, produced ten very successful and colourful gymnastic displays. On these occasions everyone who was a part of the phys-ed programme participated, for Prep school to Year 12.

He has coached the school swimming team; basketball team; lifesaving team; gymnastics team and assisted with the athletics team. He has taught under hard conditions, when the swimming lessons for P.E. were conducted down beside the boatshed in the river, and now under near perfect conditions in our magnificent gymnasium. No matter what sport or facility or condition he has had to work under, he has for twenty-five years demanded and set high standards; and been a most conscientious teacher. His dedication to his work has brought a high degree of respect from all those boys who have been fortunate enough to have a little bit of A.K. rub off on them.

He would no doubt consider the pinnacle of his career being in the area of gymnastics. He has had many dedicated young gymnasts striving for national recognition. One in particular, Lindsay Nylund, who for eight years learnt almost everything there is to know about gymnastics under Kovacs, is now, at the young age of twenty, the winner of a silver medal at the 1978 Commonwealth Games in Edmonton, Canada, is ranked among the top ten gymnasts in the U.S.A. and indeed the top twenty in the world. That must indeed be a credit to the perseverance of the student. However, if we were to ask Lindsay Nylund what is perfection and where does he get the personal drive, we know that his answer would quite simply be, "Akos Kovacs!"

We the staff and students of Christ Church applaud the man who for twenty-five years has practised and preached perfection, and respect to all.

"THANK YOU FOR THE LESSON, SIR!"

The term started slowly with only a few enthusiasts seemingly aware of what was expected of them for the next six weeks.

This year our training, instead of starting at 6.30 a.m. started at 6.45 a.m. giving all the swimmers an extra 15 minutes in bed before they had to get out and come along to the pool.

Before we knew it the house sports were upon us and then only sixteen days more training to the Inters. The House sports ran very smoothly with many good performances. Outstanding was Andrew King, moving up a year winning every event he entered becoming age champion again — tremendous swimming.

Two weeks later we had the Quadrangular Swimming Sports that were held at Wesley College. We didn't do very well in the personal events but in the relays Christ Church swam its best giving great competition to Wesley who won outright that night followed by Scotch, Christ Church and Trinity.

After the Quads there was much talk between all the schools on whether Wesley could beat Hale at the Inters, as all schools had decided that it was time for Hale to be taken off their high perch — where they've sat for the past twelve years — and give another school the glory.

A week later it was that night and the adrenalin started to flow.

The Inters was a great night of competition and sportsmanship with Christ Church coming fifth behind Hale, Wesley, Scotch and Aquinas and I think every member of the team swam his very best.

Congratulations must go to the U/15 4x50 freestyle relay team which came in first. The swimmers were, Tim Plester, Robert Cullingford, Tony Salom and Stephen Pate. This was the only event we won at this years Inters but I am hoping the team next year will get more firsts for the school.

Congratulations must also go to Robert Cullingford again for his selection in the State School Boys Water Polo side.

Finally, our thanks go to Mr. Bowker for all the time he put in with us and his organization of, and dedication to, the swimming team. I hope all the boys returning will work even harder for him next year and bring the school up to fourth or third place. It's a great sport.

1st XI Report

During third term 1978 we were team building. There remained a strong nucleus of players from the previous Darlot Cup season and all had high hopes for the coming 1979 season. The team performed rather inconsistently in their Gamble Cup matches. Highlights were the wins against Trinity and Guildford and a draw against Aquinas. For no apparent reason, the team would play extremely well one week and incredibly poorly the next. We tried desperately to develop some consistency. Encouraging features of our third term matches were the steady, accurate bowling from the Breidahl — 'Machine', the latest leg-spin weapon in the form of 'Percy' Richmond and some solid batting by Mark Paris and Cameron Lewis.

Bill Breidahl was elected captain, with Duncan Cameron his deputy and Cameron Lewis as third selector. I wish to thank them for their support.

As the Darlot Cup 1979 season opened we were extremely hopeful of doing well, but alas the inconsistency which became apparent in third term was again to plague the team.

In our first match against Trinity we had them 8 for 62 on the first afternoon and then allowed them to reach a total of 155. Inexplicably our batting also failed, and we were all out for a total of 119. We had lost our first contest.

Soundly beaten by Scotch in third term we were able to reverse the result, undoubtedly due to a fine innings of 63 by Breidahl and a devastating spell of bowling by Richmond who captured 6 for 44, well assisted by the fielders and Paul White who took 4 excellent stumpings.

Undoubtedly our best performance was against Guildford who we defeated outright in a very exciting game. A magnificent century by Lewis and good support from Cameron and Milligan set our total of 6 for 243 declared. Richmond again struck taking 5 for 33 in the first innings and Breidahl 5 for 26 in the 2nd. Fielding was again excellent.

Having played ourselves into a very strong position we then collapsed. I blame our performances basically on a lack of concentration. Our fielding deteriorated badly and our batting proved extremely brittle. As a result we ended up out of the competition. A little disappointing for a team of this potential!!

I cannot conclude without making mention of a few further highlights. Cameron Lewis produced another magic century against Hale and a fine 64 against Aquinas. Duncan Cameron also scored a fine century against Wesley. Will Atkins developed into a fine medium-pace bowler and consistently bowled well, his best performance being 5 for 49 against Aquinas. Finally Bill Breidahl who, in the past three Darlot seasons has established a remarkable record having taken 109 wickets. I congratulate him on his efforts.

The team owed a lot to Ray Strauss who assisted greatly in the area of coaching and to the mothers led by Mrs Breidahl and Mrs Cameron who always did a quality job in providing lunches and afternoon teas.

Many thanks also to David MacKenzie whose efforts as scorer have been truly outstanding.

Finally I would wish to pay tribute to Pat Holmes, without whose help and continual encouragement, I could not have survived.

TENNIS 1ST VIII

This year the 1st VIII, whilst having a rather successful season, did not really live up to pre-season expectations.

The team consisted of six Year 12's and three Year 10's. Of this team, all but one had previous 1st VIII experience, so even though the team finished in equal third position, it was a little disappointing.

The season itself began in a disheartening manner with the team losing by only three games to Scotch, with whom we finally shared third place. However, with good wins over Guildford and Trinity things started to brighten up. Unfortunately, we did not continue with this winning form, and we suffered defeats at the hands of Wesley and Aquinas, both of whom finished ahead of us.

Congratulations go to both our Captain, Andrew Watts, and Vice-Captain, Mark Alderson for receiving honours, each contributing with a fine season. "Rocky" Stone and Ross Clarke showed admirable fighting qualities each week and are to be commended for this fine attitude to matches. Other players who deserve special recognition are Mark Edgley and Tim Watts who, although only Year 10's, held down the number three and four places respectively with distinction. Both these boys have State Rankings in the Under 16 age group, and with Tony Marsh also in Year 10 showing promising form, things auger well for the coming season.

All players showed a pleasing attitude to both training and matches, with special thanks going to Mr. Rickey and Professor Watts for coaching us and encouraging us throughout the season.

Geoff Bowman.

1979 proved to be a very successful year for the Christ Church Boat Club, with the 1st VIII winning the Head of the River, ending our 12 year drought.

The season began well with the club winning the "big double", the Visitors Cup and the Walcliffe Challenge during the Margaret River Regatta. Although this was only a light-hearted affair it demonstrated our determination, winning each of these races convincingly.

The club continued this season to participate in Association events and met with mixed success, with the younger crews doing better on the Canning course. I hope next year the club continues at Canning as it provides invaluable race techniques and experience that can't be gained at training.

At the Wesley and Hale Regattas, all the crews tried very hard but never really featured and it became obvious that Aquinas was set to dominate at the "Head".

When race day came about the Christ Church boatshed proved to be a very efficient and determined force, out to prove that Aquinas wasn't top rowing school. This was demonstrated clearly by the U/16 IV who in the first race on "Head of the River day" rowed exceptionally well and finished in second place, close behind Aquinas. Aquinas then went on to win the next five races of the day and again seemed set to make a clean sweep.

The 1st VIII, remembering last years crew which came 4th (the first year the school has been out of a place), and determined to halt Aquinas' run set off for the start. The water was rough, and after two aborted attempts and one mandatory false start, the race began. We were in the leading bunch until the 500m mark when we broke away and led to the finish. It was an unforgettable race with Christ Church the winners by the incredible margin of 1 metre over the seemingly invincible Aquinas crew.

For our success overall, thanks must go to all those boys who trained so hard for it. It was a very commendable result with our worst position being only 5th on the day.

Special thanks must go to the coaches who gave up their valuable time to come down and mould us into a fine club — to M. McHenry, B. Greatrex, R. Jewkes and L. Wilson. Congratulations must also go to Murray McHenry who coached the 1st VIII this year and actually rowed in the schools last winning crew in 1967. We owe our thanks also to John Vos whose expertise with the 1st VIII was much appreciated.

Mr. Mountier and Mr. Hammond were joined this season by Mr. Ryder and together they kept the club functioning and made sure that everything worked, including the boys, many thanks to them for their efforts.

Our very special thanks to Ken Grant and John Cooper. Mr. Grant came down most days before the season and set about rebuilding and updating every boat in the shed and thus when the boys came down, all boats were in top condition and without this it is unlikely we would have achieved such a high standard.

Mr. Cooper began as driver of the 1st VIII coaching boat but ended up as both mother to the 1st VIII and manager of the whole club. He did both jobs with great verve and determination and his organization and concern for the boys was of an outstanding standard.

I would also like to thank the boys of the club and the committee for sticking by me and getting on with the job, especially the year representatives who kept their age groups under control and informed them of coming changes and events.

The spirit in the club this year was very high and because all these people contributed so much, the season was a successful one.

Interstate Triangulars:

Once again the May holidays saw the commencement of the Interstate Football (come basketball, volley ball, tennis, chess, debating and anything else anyone wanted to play) Carnival between Peninsula School (Melb.), Wesley (Perth) and Christ Church with Westminster, the Adelaide school, being late withdrawals. With Christ Church as host the Vic.'s were billeted with boys from the school.

Football being the dominant sport, it was Christ Church who reigned, being undefeated in the carnival. These wins included a record victory over Peninsula achieved through brilliant skills (and keeping the Vic.'s up late the night before the match). We played probably our best football in these May games.

Of course there were other highlights, such as those electric basketball games, that memorable beach party, that poor Vic. who was driven round the "Benz" and of course the final send-off.

The Season:

As far as the P.S.A. football season goes, 1979 was a year which we could be proud of, but a year that could have been better. In the end we finished fifth, with Scotch winning the Alcock Cup as a clearly superior team. Congratulations go to them. As a group of footballers we had the talent to do much better, as seen in our pre-season games, but the attitude as a team was not consistent in the games that really counted. However, the Christ Church 1st XVIII had its highlights and its triumphs.

The Aquinas Games:

We played two games against Aquinas and in fitting tradition the games were hard and desperate. The honours were equally shared with Christ Church winning the first clash. Facing an unbeaten side after a dismal game against Wesley, the team played one of the most astounding games of football seen on the "James Battye". With complete and utter desperation a smaller, younger Christ Church side shattered the Aquinas team with their intense desire to win the ball. In appalling football conditions Christ Church won by 8 goals. This was the result of a total team effort which was again displayed in the next Christ Church-Aquinas clash.

After a big pre-match build up the second Aquinas game was played in the style of the first. While the same desperation was seen, on the dry day Aquinas stayed in the game with long kicks and high marks. They eventually won in a game that was a credit to both teams.

The Team:

This year's team was lead by Captain "Inspiration" Lewis whose on-field example throughout the season was exhilarating and uplifting. It was a privilege to play alongside a player who was a class above every footballer in the P.S.A. competition. Cam's football prowess and his attitude will see him rise to league ranks. He was awarded honours. Honours were also awarded to Peter (Fingers) Annear for his outstanding play at centre-half back. Peter was also Vice-Captain of the team.

Man of the Match in the Aquinas game was Dave Knox whose enormous talent contributed greatly to our win. Playing a high marking, running, hand passing game Dave created many opportunities throughout the season. He unfortunately had an altercation with a Trinity player's head breaking his hand. This left discontented Dave on the sidelines taking out his frustration, due to our patchy form, by writing insulting remarks on his plaster cast.

Dave was joined by Andrew Watts who incurred a broken nose in a house football match. A great ball getter his presence was missed, although his vocal support never disappeared.

Our following division consisted of a one "man" ruck system consisting of Ash McDonald and Chris Strauss. Ash won the Old Boys trophy in the game against them (or rather the Claremont combined side). He and Chris' continued good form throughout the season and provided many opportunities to rovers Watts and Glen Moir. Glen gave brilliant service as an intelligent, speedy, ball user. Another mobile player was Mr. Guts, Mike Knox who threw himself all over the James Battye, game after game, in a tireless pursuit to get to the ball first. "Rocky" Stone, also on a wing played great games against Aquinas, and showed admirable persistence to return to the side for the final Aquinas game.

Christ Church forward line had its problems. Early in the season the little mouse, Meuk Morrissy showed great endeavour as a burrower and goal kicker. He was joined by Mike Guest and Andy Bevan who kicked and created goals. The mainstay was Bill Breidahl, whose end of season form was superlative, taking many spectacular grabs. His disco boots also did some great work in the ruck. Dave Thurling, that volatile redhead, also added bite in the late-season forward-line. He also killed them on the half-back flank. Beside Dave was Jamie Bailye who played a great game in the last Aquinas match and was named B.O.G. as well as Best On Ground. His shovelling of the ball was something to be seen.

The backline was also unstable but the final balance found Mark Giblet attending 6'5", hairy legged Aquinians as full back. Joined by Ross Clarke this line became more and more consistent as the season progressed with "Gibbo" putting in some great defensive games. Ross shifted to a wing for the Guildford/Aquinas games, revelled in this running position, and played his best football there. Congratulations go to Phil Crump who in his first season held his position on the back-flank by his display of courage and desperation.

Young Bloods:

Congratulations go to Rob Grylls, Steve Norrie, Ken Patrick and Mark Sweett who played their first seasons in the 1st's. Both Grylls and Steve gave great lift to the mobile division, joined by Mark Sweet in the ruck. Ken Patrick, the most enthusiastic trainer, played some courageous games in the backline. Equal in enthusiasm was our runner Jeroms Lefroy, who was probably fitter than any of us. Thanks Jeremy.

Thanks of course, must go to Mr. Watkins for his tireless efforts in coaching us. It is a pity we could not reward him with more than the frustrations of patchy form. However, there is plenty of talent left in Christ Church. Best of luck for the 1980 season.

I must start this note by saying thank you to Miss Day for always being at the squash courts to organize the team.

We started the season well stealing one of the 1st eleven's star, super co-ordinated hockey players, who improved out of sight during the season and will soon be a vital player!

It was unfortunate that we could not organize many games during the season but the two we did play, against Guildford, were very even and were won on points by Christ Church.

We don't want to talk about the game's score on the grounds that it may embarrass us.

I would like to conclude by wishing next year's squash team every success.

After a somewhat disappointing 1978 season, when the 1st XI finished fifth behind Wesley, Trinity, Aquinas and Hale, the eight players returning were keen to put the school back into its more familiar position at the top of the P.S.A. standings.

Things looked extremely promising for the coming season when we performed well in the pre-season scratch matches, defeating Hale (3-0) and narrowly losing to the Old Boys (3-4). Unlike the 1978 team, which had only four experienced members from 1977 — unfortunately all defenders — this year we had a balance of experienced forwards and defenders. This was a contributory factor in our third place in this year's competition behind Aquinas and Trinity.

At the end of the first round of fixtures, the race for the cup was extremely close with only two points separating the first and fourth places. At this time, we were in an extremely favourable position, having only to win our last four matches to take the cup. Unfortunately, a loss to Scotch (2-3), and draws against Guildford (3-3) and Aquinas (1-1) put us well out of contention. At the end of the season, it was the loss of points to the bottom side, Guildford, in both rounds (2-2 and 3-3) which ultimately cost us the cup. Poor performances against Aquinas (1-3) in the first round, and Scotch in the second, robbed us of vital points.

Despite the unlucky ending, the 1979 season was extremely successful, laced with achievement and outstanding performances. Perhaps the most outstanding of these was the draw with the strong Hotspurs team — composed of past and present state and Australian players, who have yet to be defeated by any school or representative side. These performances of merit were not confined to practice matches, but included P.S.A. fixtures. Performances of note include the matches against Hale School (4-0), Trinity (2-1), Wesley (4-2 in the second round) and Aquinas (1-1). In each of these games, the team played with the assurance and skill which was capable of winning the P.S.A. competition. Another outstanding performance was the 0-1 loss to the State Under-18 Secondary Schoolboys team on the Astroturf at the Commonwealth Hockey Stadium at WAIT.

Congratulations must go to Ching Howe Chan on his selection in the Combined P.S.A. team which played the Hotspurs at the Hockey Stadium; on the day, he was the best of the schoolboy defenders. Thanks must also go to Mark Alderson on his competent vice-captaincy, and the enthusiasm he displayed on the field from week to week. David McKenzie was one who typified the spirit of the team, giving his all in every game throughout the season.

Finally, our thanks must go to Mr. House, who worked tirelessly, instilling in us the tactics and skills necessary to perform well.

To the eight players returning next year, those leaving the side wish them the best of luck, and hope that their victory in the Year 9A's can be repeated in the 1980 season.

The game of Rugby Union, throughout the southern, traditionally Australian Rules — States, has recently sprouted in popularity and has established its place as a major sport. This development has been reflected in the keenness and dedication to Rugby Union at Christ Church, with no fewer than five senior school teams playing every week against other P.S.A. schools.

Like all good things, Rugby at Christ Church is heading for a larger following as years go by, and many look forward to its attaining Under 16 and Preparatory School status, to come in line with other major winter sports.

In retrospect, 1979 has been a season in which all teams, from the Middle School B team to the 1st XV, have shown many of the qualities necessary for success. However, a quality, which we have developed to a point where it should be jealously guarded and maintained, is our high standard of sportsmanship. Led by a well-spirited, yet highly mannered 1st XV, the whole school has been shown the way all sport should be played. Although competition was always keen and occasionally resulted in over vigorous and provocative play from opposing teams, the 1st XV never lowered its standard to retaliate, and all members of the team must be congratulated on their example.

The 1st XV was also very successful in their actual results. They did, however, fall victim to the split round system, which meant they played Scotch and Guildford twice. These were the only schools to beat us, and we remained undefeated by all other teams, the majority of which we played only once. Our height of success came in the Hale match which saw the 1st XV run out winners 17-3.

The other four teams reached their peak in the round against Aquinas in which all teams were given a taste of success. It was a just reward for Messrs. Lund, Clarkson, and Cole whose many hours of coaching have ensured a sound basis for the future.

Our depth was displayed by the number of people selected for State teams. The 1st XV contained seven past or present State players from different age groups. The match between W.A. Schoolboys and the English Schoolboys saw Shane Milligan, Andy Keay and Michael Pate represent the State. In the August holidays the W.A. Under 19 Schoolboys team went to Brisbane where it succeeded in winning the Southern States Shield for the first time. Andrew King, Andy Keay and Shane Milligan represented Christ Church on the tour and must be congratulated on their selection.

Finally our assistant coach, Professor Pate, and coach/manager, Mr. Woollett, must be thanked for their tireless work in training and enthusing the 1st XV. As a result, rugby's status has risen within the school and we look forward to many years of success in the 1980's.

Christ Church Grammar School must now be considered to be the top P.S.A. School in cross-country. In 1978 Middle School team came second and the Senior School team came an incredible first. Fate reversed this result in 1979 with the Senior School team finishing well to come second to Aquinas, and the Middle School team coming second to none.

Mr. Marsland coached the Middle School team to victory this year. Some of the stars were Eginton, Neale and Carington-Jones. Promising young runner Nigel Drayton was the star that stood out. He won every race this year and was selected to run in the National School Boy's Cross-Country Championships. He also broke the U/15's cross country record.

Congratulations must go to Mr. Marsland who has certainly built up a fine reputation. His coaching and constant encouragement always gets results.

The Senior School team had a special thing going for them this year. The attitude and team spirit was tremendous and not always seen in cross-country. Philip Cassie and Dennis Smart were the two youngsters in the team and often surprised us all with some great runs. Mark "Rat" Paris and "Bionic" Dave Raad showed us all what dedication is, and this paid off for them with consistent runs. Mike Goodridge and Dave Morgan were two of the more experienced runners and were nearly always in the top three for Christ Church.

The No. 1 position this year must go to Craig Ross, who from the very start 'plodded' along at a fine pace continually winning races. He too was selected to run in the National School Boys' Cross-Country Championships and was a credit to the school and the State. Craig's best time on the 5000m course at Mt. Claremont was 17 min. 38 sec. just 4 secs. short of the unofficial school record of 17 min. 34 sec. This must rate Craig as one of the schools best cross-country runners, ever. Well done Craig Ross.

On behalf of the team, I sincerely thank Mr. Merrells for his keen coaching and his extraordinary sense of humour. Lastly, I wish all future teams in every sport the greatest success, and hope that everyone can enjoy sport as much as the cross-country boys did this year.

“THAT SWINGING LOT”

Control, co-ordination, rhythm and determination are the major qualities the gymnast must possess in order to attain any standing in this field. Many try, many fail, but for those who acquire these abilities, no one can deny the feeling of satisfaction, when one first conquers the shoot to handstand, three-quarter twist, half out, back-salt to catch (high bar). That move, along with many others could so easily be a “wipe out”, and this is the gymnast's only fear. The momentary loss of application and concentration, and you experience “free-fall”, to the floor. No one could say gymnastics isn't spectacular if done well, but to do it well the gymnast must learn to keep going, no matter what the odds, to obtain that sense of satisfaction in a job well done.

The man that shapes this unique sportsman, is Mr. Kovacs.

The '79 Gymnastics season, has once again proved to be successful in showing that Christ Church still dominates wheelbarrow Gymnastics in the State. This year's level 7, 8, 9, 10 State Championships, held at Len Fletcher Pavilion during August, proved the club's overall standard, when the level 7 team (seniors), comprising Nigel Gribble, Andrew King, Cameron Robinson and Warwick Wilson, took out first place as a team.

The Christ Church Old Boys Lindsay Nylund, Neil Porter, Michael Herman, Kurt Zink, Scott Isbel and Matthew Sadka, also competed in higher levels to take out all prizes. They were uncontested, which only shows the school's contribution to West Australian gymnastics.

After several warm up competitions, we had the major event in the school gym calendar; the Home Championships, where we battle for the right to win the Walker's Cup (U/15) or the MacLagan Cup (Open). This year's competition was well contested and showed a high standard in both levels.

In the Walker's Cup section, a gruelling battle took place with Peter McSkimming coming 1st, Douglas German 2nd, David Smith 3rd, Novac Jol 4th, and David Smirk 5th. Some excellent talent is being shown by the younger members and I only hope they keep it up.

In the MacLagan Cup (open section), a hard match was fought with the scores being remarkably close. Andrew King took out 1st place, with Warwick Wilson and Cameron Robinson battling for second, which resulted in a tie, with Nigel Gribble coming a very close third.

Thanks must go to the parents, teachers and students who gave up their time to assist in the running of the competitions. We couldn't do without them.

Next came the level 5 and 6 State Championships with the overall results being very impressive. The C.C.G.S. level 5 teams came 2nd and 3rd whilst the level 6 team came first. Peter McSkimming came 1st, Douglas German 2nd, David Smith 4th, Novac Jol 5th and David Smirk 8th, which shows that the gymnastics seasons for the future look bright.

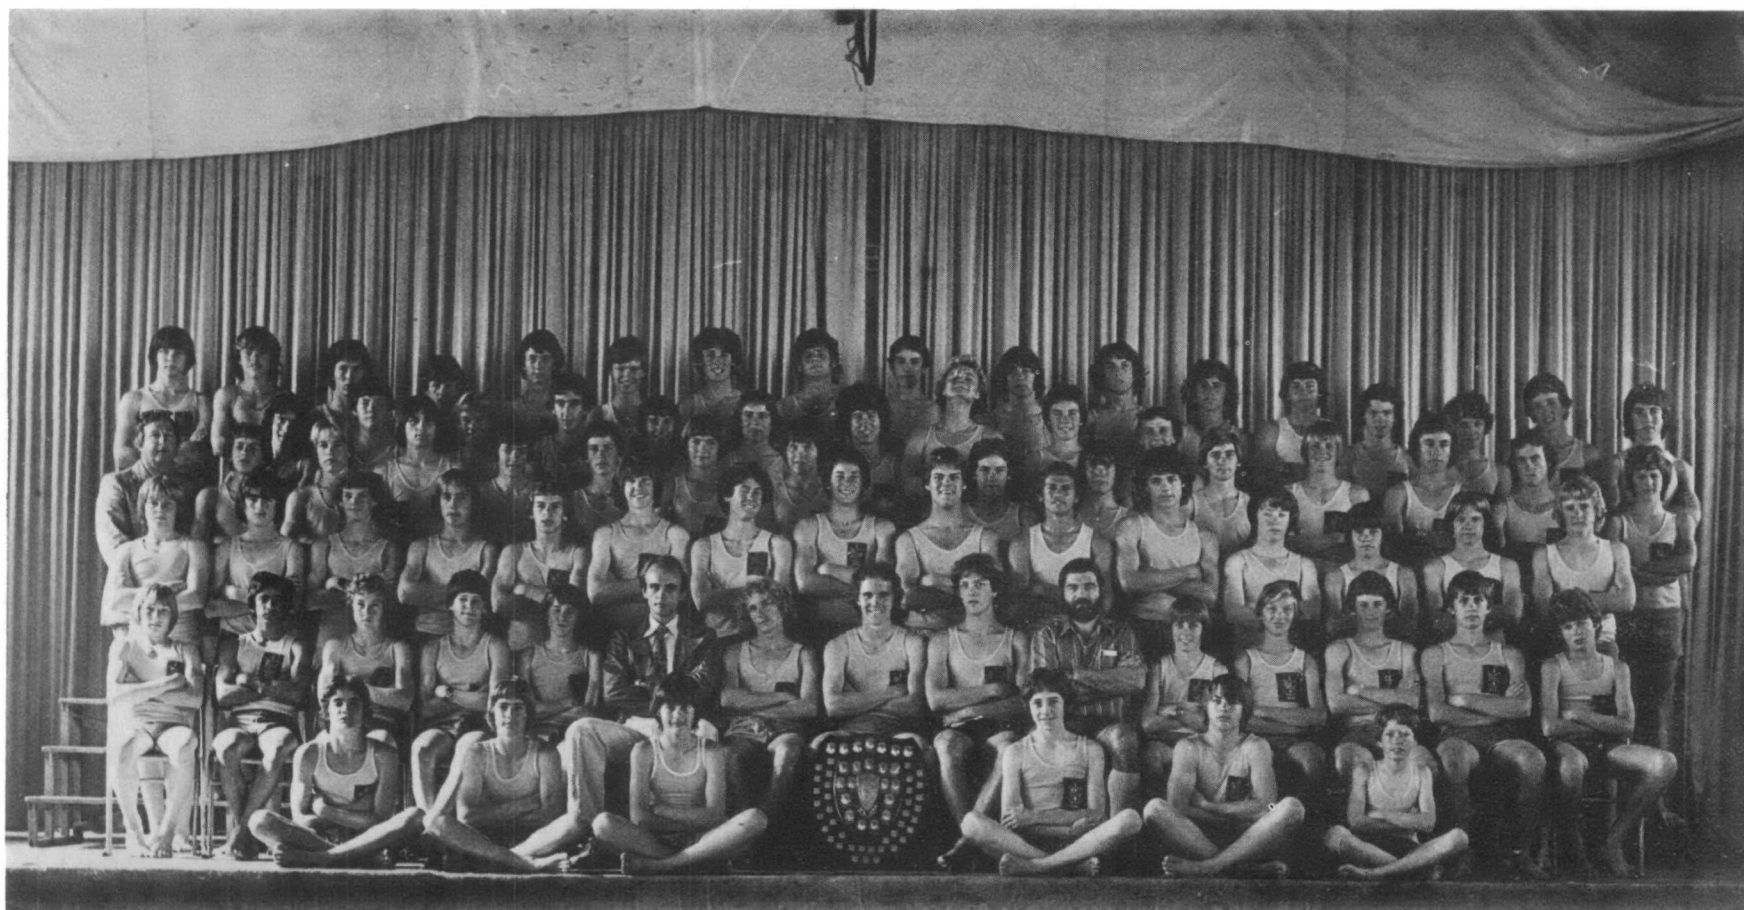

Second term saw the arrival of the Arizona State University, “Sun Devils”, which was of a great help to us, for these highly experienced gymnasts passed on a few of their hints. Two in particular, Tommi Watson and Mike Naddour, stayed to run a training clinic at the school each Monday night. Much experience was gained and thanks must go to them for their gracious efforts.

It has also been rumoured that several present year 12 boys will take up gymnastics next year. This is great to see, let's have more of it.

After a fairly successful season, thanks once again must go to Mr. Kovacs for giving up his spare time in training the boys, before school, lunch times and in the school holidays. A tribute must be paid to him for his untiring dedication towards the club and its members. We look forward to continued success in 1980.

ATHLETICS REPORT

The 1979 Athletic season saw for Christ Church, a great deal of team spirit involvement amongst the team members, and this factor contributed greatly to the success the team enjoyed at both the Quadrangulares and the Inters,

After a somewhat poor turn out to training sessions at the beginning of the season, the attendance gradually increased until at the Quadrangulares, Christ Church fielded its biggest ever team, which emphasised its depth. Over 100 athletes competed for Christ Church on the 13th October.

With Christ Church gaining first at the Quads. overall, the team seemed set to do well at the Inters on the following Saturday. This the team did, but only after a strong come — back supported in the latter stages of the meeting by the middle distance and relay runners. In the 800 m races every Christ Church runner came in one of the four first places, excepting one with Nick Reynolds capping this performance by winning the U/14 2nd Division 800m. This high success rate was then followed up in the U/16, U/17 and Open division of the 1500 m races, when every Christ Church competitor gained a place in one of the first three positions, Rob. Grylls put up a courageous effort to win the U/16 1st Div, 1500 m, Hamish Carnachan secured a first place in the 2nd Division U17 1500 m, and Mike Knox and Tim Flaherty pulled off the quinella in the Open 2nd and 1st Division races respectively.

Other good performances that occurred throughout the afternoon included Cameron Lewis's win in the Open 2nd Division Long Jump, Andrew King's win in the U/16 2nd Division Long Jump, Willy Atkin's fine run in the Open 2nd Division 100 m to take in first place, Ashley McDonald's win in the Open 2nd Division Triple Jump. Then there was Mal Thomson's superb effort in winning all three 1st Division jumping events in the U/15 age group.

By the time the last event of the day, the Open Relay. was about to commence Christ Church still remained in fifth position by 10 points to Guildford who was fourth overall. But due to great team effort in this particular event by Willy Atkins, Cameron Lewis, Edward Sinclair and Paul Michael, they gained third place and secured a fourth position overall by 4 points from Guildford, who slipped back to fifth place

It was an excellent conclusion to a fine athletics season, where not only did we win the Quads. but we also did well at the Inters. It must be realised that this success was only made possible through the organization and coaching both from inside and outside the school. Thanks must go to Mr. Marsland for his very successful coaching of the middle distance runners, to Mr. Bowker for his organizing efforts throughout the season, also to Mr. Kovacs, Mr. Merrells, Mr. Blackwood, Mr. London, Mr. Van Kempen, Mr. Ryder and to the outside coaches, Duncan Sullivan, Jim Bogle. Mr. Taylor from the U.W.A. and to anyone inadvertently omitted.

On this note I would finally like to take the opportunity to wish next year's athletic team the best of luck and the hope that they have the success we shared this year.

BASKETBALL

The 1979 basketball season was the most successful in the 2 year history of P.S.A. basketball, with two great wins over Hale and Wesley and a memorable annihilation handed out to Aquinas, this year's success is largely due to the depth of our reserves. This year two teams competed against all other schools.

In the off-season, talent scouts recruited three new big men, Tim Eckersley, Scott Rigney and Ashley McDonald took the basketball world by storm with their leaping and rebounding skills and general basketball prowess. Tim combined well with Scott Rigney whose only difficulty was adjusting from rugby rules to basketball rules. Unfortunately, umpires didn't appreciate Scott's spontaneous rugby tackles and he was fouled off in numerous occasions. Ash adjusted easily to basketball and soon became a highly skilled defender and attacker. This trio, while the backbone of our defence, all became extremely useful attackers.

The "littler" men of the team consisted of Glen Moir, Ching-Howe Chan and Chris Hansen. Glen led our attack, scoring with fast-breaks and tremendous long-shots. Ching-Howe and Chris were expert ball-handlers who controlled our movements while also scoring well.

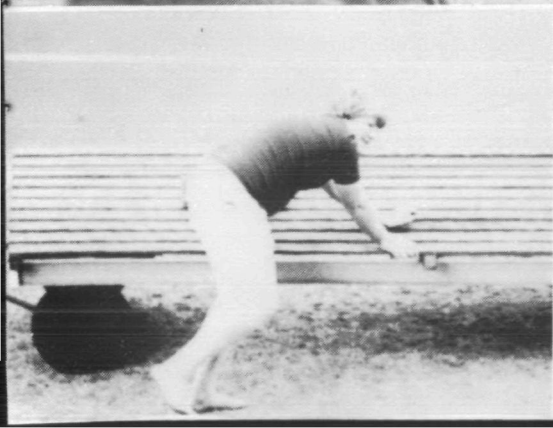

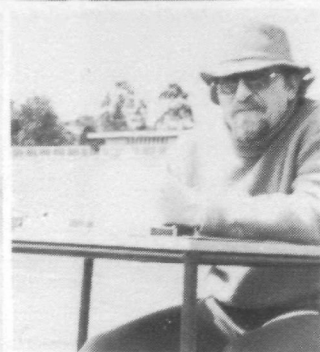

It is clear that basketball is on the way up to becoming a recognized sport both by Christ Church and the P.S.A. Thanks also go to Mr. Morrissy for his support. Best of luck for the 1980 season.

It was a quiet year for the School Chess Club. We were unable to retain the Trophy which was competed for during the May Holidays in the course of the State Junior Chess Championships.

We did have some able players in Andrew Alsop and Steven Cooper in the Under fourteen section and Robert Taplin managed a fourth place in the under sixteens. Tim Reynolds also gave a good account of himself in this age group. We were however only able to field one competitor in the open competition, Michael Codd.

During the August vacation the Garden City Tournament was held and although a number of our able players entered we were unsuccessful.

In the interschool competition we competed with an A and a B team. The A team, consisting of Tim Reynolds, Michael Codd, Charles Collin and Robert Taplin did not have a very encouraging season but on a brighter note the B team finished high up on the competition table. This group includes Luke Jones, Stephen Lawrence, Steven Cooper, Barry Lim and Richard Scolaro. With young and very able players like these Christ Church Chess does have a chance of redeeming itself.

The club thanks Mr Hopkins for his efforts on its behalf in organising competitions and supplying transport to the various schools.

"IT'S ACADEMIC"

This year was a very successful one for Christ Church in "It's Academic", with the team reaching the State Finals, a position which has never before been obtained by the school.

The team, Clark Hook, Adrian Pate and myself, arrived at the studios of TVW 7 for the first time, in late April. In our first game, the scores were very close after the first and second rounds, but we pulled ahead in rounds 3 and 4 to win by 205 points from Servite College.

This win got us into the semi-finals, two weeks later in the May holidays. In this game, we remained behind until the third round, when we pulled ahead with such old favourites as "What is the capital of Albainia" to win by 90 points. In the same afternoon, the Series Finals were held, against Newman College and none other than our traditional rivals, Aquinas. These schools were tougher competition than we had encountered so far, and with only one round remaining, we were behind by 90 points. Our strength, though, lay in Beat the Buzzer where we answered four correct to Newman's two. This enabled us to win by 55 points from Newman College, with Aquinas coming last.

We were well rewarded by this win, earning ourselves each $100 and $300 for the school which is being spent on various things, including the 14 volume set of books about Western Australia for the library.

Our next game, the State Final, was held on June 9th. We were up against two girls' schools — St. Hilda's and Santa Maria. Incidentally, the 1978 Santa Maria team went on to win the National Final in the Eastern States. very unchivalrously, we decided to win! Unfortunately, Santa Maria were just too good. After being ahead throughout the game, they scooped up nearly all the final questions to win with 750 points. Christ Church came second with 345.

As finalists we each received a Citizen watch, a National Semi-Conductor 4150 calculator and two Parker rolled gold pens, and the school was presented with a set of World Book Encyclopaedias and a JVC portable radio and television receiver.

So ended Christ Church's "It's Academic" for 1979. Many people contributed to our success — as always, Mr. Woollett must be thanked for the many hectic hours he spent coaching us. Also, our reserves — Donald and Roddy Ormonde, Hugh Welch and Graeme Sutherland, must be thanked for their tireless effort.

Best of luck must go to whoever is in next year's team. I hope that one day, we may see a Christ Church team in the National Finals.

Thanks again to all those who make "It's Academic" such a resounding success.

DEBATING

At the beginning of this year, the very Rev. Walter Ogle had a problem on his hands — the Christ Church debating team, or rather, the lack of it. A great gap had been left by the previous year's team, who's character and strength had overshadowed any budding talent in the lower parts of the school. His plight was publicised, and in response, a mottly bunch of blokes came forward. Boof Clarke and myself, debaters from way back were enlisted, and the third member of our team, Pete "Carn the tiges" Annear was dragged in from somewhere else.

Father Ogle then attempted to mould us into a coherent team, with food for thought being chewed during leisurely lunches in his apartment.

Finally, the big test came; our first debate scheduled against St. Hilda's. Unfortunately, the girls, hearing of our prowess, decided to forfeit.

Our second and third debates were somewhat disappointing. Displaying chivalry not usually seen in this day and age, we let both Iona and M.L.C. beat us. The blow was a heavy one and we queried whether it had all been worth it. We decided on an "all stops out" effort against John XXIII, the hottest team in the competition.

Boof, our sturdy number one speaker, was suddenly called away on urgent business. Frantically, we searched for a replacement. The honour of being first up on the slab for Christ Church was finally given to Rhetoric Robert Rousset.

The actual debate was a closely fought ordeal. Many times during the night, the scales tipped back and forth. Finally, the adjudicator handed down his verdict.

John XIII

Although we only won two of our four debates I think that we can look back on this year with a broadened outlook, and realize that perhaps winning was not as important as the humility we learnt from our losses. Every trial was met philosophically, in true debating style. We had before us always the example of Father Ogle, who, in question time used to leave the opposition stunned with his outbursts in Hebrew and Latin, and his quotations from Plato and Socrates.

Such moral fibre and emotional stability will never be nurtured amongst the ranks of such teams as the first VIII's, XI's, XV's or XVIII's, and it is for this reason that any young man who wants to do well in this world should think twice before he dismisses debating.

So on this note, I wish next year's team the best of luck, and hope they too attain the success they deserve.

Finally, I must thank the masters, Mr. Ruddle, Mr. Ryder, and Father Ogle for their generous help and encouragement.

ARCHIVES

(L-R) C. Hood, G.J. Freeman, A.J. Buchanan, P.K. Smith, M.C. James.

This year, during second term, five Year 10's took over The Archives. After investigating the present collection it was decided that it would be more efficient if everything was catalogued for future reference. Not only did this improve organization but it was easier to form displays during the year.

Many students have found The Archives useful for project work because items of historical interest come not only from the school but from other organizations associated with Christ Church's early days are also included.

Open Day proved very successful with a display entitled "The Last Thirty Years". We have to thank Mr. Moyes and the administrative staff who patiently put up with our disruptions for weeks before Open Day.

We are appealing for any items in any way connected with the School's past — letters, photographs, school reports, documents of any sort, items of school uniform, news clippings — nothing is too insignificant if we are to build up a full picture of our own history.

SOCIAL SERVICE

Front (L-R) D.A. Hay, A.C. Sullivan, P.C.A., Hobbs, Mr. C.J. Williams, D.H. Steensma

Row Two R.A. Kirby, M.J. Mills, S.G. Downs, E.E. Hughes, D.M. Kleeman, A.K. Hill, M.S. Whitford, M.J. Wells.

This year has been one of change for the Social Service. From the beginning, this year's committee decided on a new emphasis in activity that would lead to increased participation out in the community. This kind of participation has slowly declined in previous years, as former committees decided it was easier to raise money that could be channelled into worthwhile causes, rather than become involved directly with people requiring personal assistance.

It was our aim to rectify this trend, and to encourage student participation in the community in areas that students of such an affluent school such as Christ Church seldom encounter.

We began by forming links with Lucy Creath a home for victims of muscular dystrophy. After five visits, it became apparent that our visits were of little real value to the crippled children. It was, in retrospect, naive to assume that we could bounce into such an environment and communicate with people with such complex problems. The lessons we learnt made our endeavour worthwhile, and was a real eye opener to the terrible handicaps endured by some.

Our reception at Wanslea (a short term hostel for young children whose parents, due to sickness or other problems cannot support their children) was completely different. No communication barrier existed in this situation, as was demonstrated by the Christ Church boys who could be seen cavorting around the Wanslea play grounds. These Friday afternoon visits provided relief for over worked staff, and again introduced us to social problems unusually encountered by us.

The money raised throughout the year totalled about $500. This money was presented to the St. Bartholomew's Home for derelict and destitute men. Those of the committee who visited the home saw the severe poverty that still exists in our society.

It is interesting to note that house collections — a source of money that used to be the school's only fund raising activity have, in recent years, drastically diminished, and that the majority of money now raised through house collections comes from the Preparatory School. To compensate for this lack of income, the Social Service Committee has spent nearly all its time organising fund raising activities such as quiz nights and the ever popular "Mr. Christ Church" competition.

It is a pity that our worth is judged in dollars raised rather than in people helped.

Although many lessons were learnt, we must be honest and say that we failed in our basic aim. The visits to Wanslea, and all our fund raising activities were performed by a core of twelve students, with virtually no other help from the rest of the school. Repeated pleas for help were ignored as the majority of students believed that "somebody else" would do the work.

The question that must be answered is whether in fact it is not hypocritical for a school like Christ Church to boast Social Service, while all the effort is made by a handful of boys.

The 1979 committee wishes the 1980 committee the best of luck in its work and gives its thanks to our patron, Mr. Williams, who quietly but firmly helped us on our way.

THE POUND 1979-80

At the beginning of second term 1979, the new pound committee moved in. This doesn't usually happen until third term but due to the number of days the blue door was closed, something had to be done. The committee consists of eleven people, all but one are day boys.

At the moment we are dreaming of the days when we move into our new room — in 'M' block — which will offer us a lot more space. At the moment we have about 56 items of clothing, about 26 books and about 50 pens and pencils and only some of these have names on.

The boys of the pound consider themselves to be providing an essential service for the boys at the school. They give up their brief lunch break to identify and return the discarded property that is shed around the school sports fields. We urge all readers to PUT THEIR NAMES ON THEIR GARMENTS, because then, it is not only easier for us, but you get your lost property back so much more quickly.

Row Two D.M. Edge, Mrs. J. Price, Mrs. E. Hall, Mrs. M.C.T. Jansen, R.J. Frith, M.C. Gregg, D.M. Simmons.

During 1979 The Selwyn Prior Library has continued to fill an increasingly important role in the life of the school. Since moving to its larger quarters in 1976, the Library has rapidly established itself as the school's major meeting place for students, and this trend intensified during the year. Students have, in ever increasing numbers, opted for the air-conditioned comfort of the Library, in preference to braving the elements. As the Library is the only large, sheltered area to which students can go before school and at lunchtime, it was often crammed during winter's cold and wet patches.

Although the staff and prefects were pleased with the growth in Library usage, it was not without its problems. With so many people in the Library, it is essential to maintain a reasonably low level of conversation. It is the Library Prefects main task to police this, and more particularly, to maintain total silence in the "Quiet Area", the section to the west of the Librarian's Office. A sizeable majority of students seem determined to abuse the unique intention of this area as a place for individual work without talk, and the prefects are given the responsibility to evict those selfish and/or unthinking members of the school community who refuse to obey the wall charts, prefects and staff which/who warn against the dangers of incessant chatter. The maintenance of silence has however proved a daunting, almost impossible task although I feel that a gradual improvement has been achieved over the year in noise levels.

The duties of the Library prefects are obviously difficult and demanding. Apart from their never ending beat as anti-noise patrolmen, they must also find time to replace books and to maintain some semblance of order in the shelves; and to keep a sharp eye out for those students who delight in beating the system by stealing books from the Library. To counter this last problem, prefects and staff are rostered to stand at the Library door at first bell in the mornings, at the end of periods, and at the end of break and lunch, to check that all books leaving the Library do in fact have date slips in them. It is regrettable that such measures must be taken to deter the few thieves amongst us, because of the extra work it entails. More importantly, it is shameful when we cannot trust our fellows. Trust should be the basis of the school community, and this should extend to the Library. Yet with the growing number of "missing" books, I cannot see any realistic alternative form of action.

CHAPEL COMMITTEE

After suffering 12 months of Kiss's "Double Platinum" at 9,000 decibels and repeated kneeler attacks, the Chapel has finally recovered from the after effects of the riotous 1978 chapel prefects and has begun to settle back into its foundations!

Ironical as it may seem, the 1979 Chapel Committee was serious in its attempt to get projects underway.

Force Ten was our major achievement this year. This is a programme aimed at developing Third World countries.

With many heart-rending speeches made by the Reverend Father Ogle, and a little friendly persuasion by such "brutes" as 'Sydney vicious', the Chapel Committee was able to collect large sums of money each Sunday morning to support the worthy project.

At the beginning of the year, the Chapel Prefects were treated by the chaplains (Fr. Ogle and Fr. Witham) to an inspiring movie called "Jesus of Nazareth", which was enjoyed by us all.

We were all saddened to see Fr. Ogle leave us in August to join a monastery in Adelaide.

After several months of intensive training by the Chapel Committee and Mr. Nancarrow, we are pleased to announce that we have released the 1980 Chapel Prefects for active service. They have (at the time of writing) taken over the Sunday morning disc jockey session with selected music for people with finer tastes. We wish them well.

COMPUTER CLUB

The Computer Club in action.

1979 was a year of education for the computer club. We have not been as busy writing and then playing computer games as we have been in the past. We concentrated our efforts on all aspects of computer use, and some interesting programmes resulted.

A few years ago, the chief computer users were year 12's, mainly because boys did not start using the computer until year 10 or 11. Since then, however, there has been a gradual change, and now year 12's use the computer only occasionally, especially during third term, when study for the T.A.E. tends to leave little time for extra curricular activities.

This year, three year 11's, D. Cooksley, P. Hill and S. Nixon have proved to be the most able computer operators, and have explored every aspect of the computer's capabilities. This knowledge has been shown in the programmes they have written and used this year. These three members also give up valuable computing time to teach younger members of the club to use the computer. As a result of this, year 9's and 8's are now able to handle the computer by themselves, and consequently play an active part in the club.

A 'feature' of the club not to be forgotten is the man at the top, Mr. Merrells. In the last few years, due to high levels of computer exposure, he has unavoidably caught the 'computer bug' disease. He arranged for computing to be taught as part of the maths syllabus in years 9 and 10 in 1979, and the club hopes to extend the field of computer use to all students, as the computer is becoming an increasingly important part of our technological world.

During the year we lost our phone link with larger outside computers, such as the computing system at the University. For the rest of the year we were temporarily based in Mr. Merrells maths classroom in S-Block. The result of this move was an extremely high level of computer-saturation for him. One can take a limited amount of exposure to computers, and many members of the club sympathize with him having sat in front of the computer screen for an hour to two too many themselves.

Mr. Merrells, however, will be saved from overexposure (a fate worse than having a brief electricity cut instantaneously wipe out any record of a programme that has taken weeks to perfect). Next year the club and the computer will move to our new air-conditioned computer room in Q-Block. Our phone link may be re-established and we also hope to have some new micro-computers. This year, our facility was used to its full capacity. We hope next year that with more terminals, a greater number of students will learn to understand and enjoy the school computing facilities.

PHOTOGRAPHY

"The negative was the basis of our activities". This is not to say that we had a negative attitude, but that all of our activities started by exposing and developing negatives. From there we progressed to producing prints in a very 'positive' way.

The club has been small in past years, but now has 18 members. The three experienced members from recent years formed the basis of this year's club, assisting Mr. Nancarrow in teaching other members how to use cameras and produce photos.

It could be claimed that our work this year lacked 'colour', but the more capable members have delved into some of the more technical areas of photography, by exploring pseudo-solarization, reducing, multiple exposure and other ways of producing interesting photos. These members have also tended to concentrate their talents in certain areas. Robert Frith has become a naturalist/conservationist photographer, basing his surrealist photos in forest and farm settings. Dave Green has turned into a marine photographer, using a water proof camera-housing and wearing a wetsuit to catch the surfing action.

The club had two major photographic adventures this year. One was an equipment workshop, during which Mr. Sindall explained the purposes and uses of the many cameras and lenses available. He also showed us how to get the most out of any camera by using it the best way. The other was a colour workshop, for the senior boys who really had a firm grasp of the basics of photography. There we were shown how to produce colour negatives, slides and prints. We also took the chance to participate in the processing ourselves.

Thanks must go to Mr. Nancarrow, whose efforts have made the club more of a group working together and sharing knowledge, rather than a number of individuals. With this co-operative approach the club should go from strength to strength.

Mike Goodridge

P.S. Our thanks must go to Mike for raising the greater part of $60 through sale of prints used by the club to purchase a new enlarging lens, a print wiper and a print drier.

MUSIC

At present the Music Department is a growth industry. Altogether some 260 boys learn a musical instrument — apart from organ and piano. To cope with the demand we have nine visiting teachers, specialists in their own field for lessons in Oboe, Bassoon, French Horn, Tuba, Trumpet, Trombone, Clarinet, Flute, Saxophone, Violin, Spanish Classical Guitar, Electric Rhythm and Bass Guitar and a wide range of percussion skills.

The Music School has a high level of enthusiasm and there is good contact between the Upper School and the Prep. to maintain continuity. However a Wind Band, Chamber Orchestra and various instrumental groups cannot yet be accommodated with rehearsal time. The practical area of time — tabling for the modern Headmaster of a large school is a sophisticated and taxing problem. To stretch his resourcefulness and flexibility even further to accommodate the Music specialists may end in time — tabling friction.

However, nothing really stops progress and music must be heard to be believed. The basic band under the keen and watchful ear of Peter Knoop, professional Jazz musician from the Hague, Holland is proceeding apace and has played in open — practice on three occasions. The Year 11 Rock Group performed at a lunch time recital and for the Boarders' Dance evening. A military band is in the embryo.

The aim of the department is not the training of musicians, but the education of a well — versed, musically literate youth. Through the introduction of new musical activities we hope to inspire many boys with an interest in all kinds of music:

The Word and Nought else
in time endures.
Not you long after
Perished and mute
Shall last, but the defter
Viol and Lute.

The Choir hits a high note.

The school choir this year has continued its service to the school community. This however, can only be maintained by boys in both the Preparatory and Senior Schools volunteering their time to participate in it. The response to membership of the school choir has been very promising from the Preparatory School and we hope to encourage far more senior boys to join us in 1980.

Throughout the year the choir played an active role in the family services which took place at the beginning and end of each term. During first term the main function which the choir attended was the special Annunciation Evensong. The choir performed the anthems, "O'Taste and See" by R. Vaughan-Williams and the first movement of the Magnificent by B. Pergolesi. At the end of first term eleven boys from the choir attended a musical training camp for a week.

In second term at the Founder's Day Service the choir sang two anthems, "Lord I trust thee" by Handel and the Bach anthem, "Christians Shout for Joy and Gladness". Later during the term the treble section of the choir gave a concert where they performed a number of folksongs and negro spirituals. In the latter part of third term a group of boys from the school choir in conjunction with a number of other school choirs performed in the 150th Anniversary Concert in the Perth Concert Hall.

On behalf of all members of the school choir we would like to thank Mr. Southwell for the dedication he has shown as choir master which has enabled the choir to reach a very high and rewarding standard.

DRAMA NOTES

The introduction of Options into the Year 11 timetable this year saw the participation of a dozen boys in the Drama Option and a consequent increase in the Year 11 involvement in the July Drama Evenings. On these two evenings, the English Department put on a selection of poetry readings and one-act plays in the School Memorial Hall. Casts and directors were encouraged to be exploratory in their approach to sets, lighting and movement. The result was a programme that showed a pleasing range of technique.

One very interesting development, for instance, was the use of a rear-projection screen, which allowed performers to work in the context of a variable backdrop. There was also an increase in the number of original playscripts. As well, the trend towards music-and-movement became very apparent.

Then on November 1st, 2nd and 3rd, Mr. Pate put on a musical he had written to celebrate WAY 79, "The Gold-digger". Boys of Christ Church Grammar School were joined by girls of Methodist Ladies' College in a performance that combined freshness and zest with a message for all of us.

All in all, the year has made it very obvious that the school has a large reservoir of dramatic talent just begging to be tapped. The educational value of drama, be it for classroom or public performance, extends deep into the areas of personality and character development, and it is to be hoped that next year will see a continuation of this year's encouraging trends.

KOORINGAL

One of the varied activities of Koorinal: A headmaster's conference.

Koorinal once again has shown its ability to cater for groups, both large and small in a variety of age groups and a wide range of activities. During the year a total of 1,156 boys and staff visited the camp for periods of 2 to 4 days on leisure, semi-leisure and programmed study activities.

These visiting classes ranged from P5/6 through all the Preparatory School classes to all of year eight, the Cadet Unit, McClemans Boarding House a mixed girls and boys German language camp and a number of weekend visits by a confirmation group, a Biology study group and for the first time a day boys sporting house when Jupp spent an enjoyable and successful two days visit in the last weekend in September.

As the Mitre goes to press, plans are in an advanced stage for the whole of year 9, a total of 150 boys and some 7 to 8 staff, to go into camp in the second last week of November and when this camp is a success, as it will be, Koorinal will have shown another aspect of its role in the overall school curriculum.

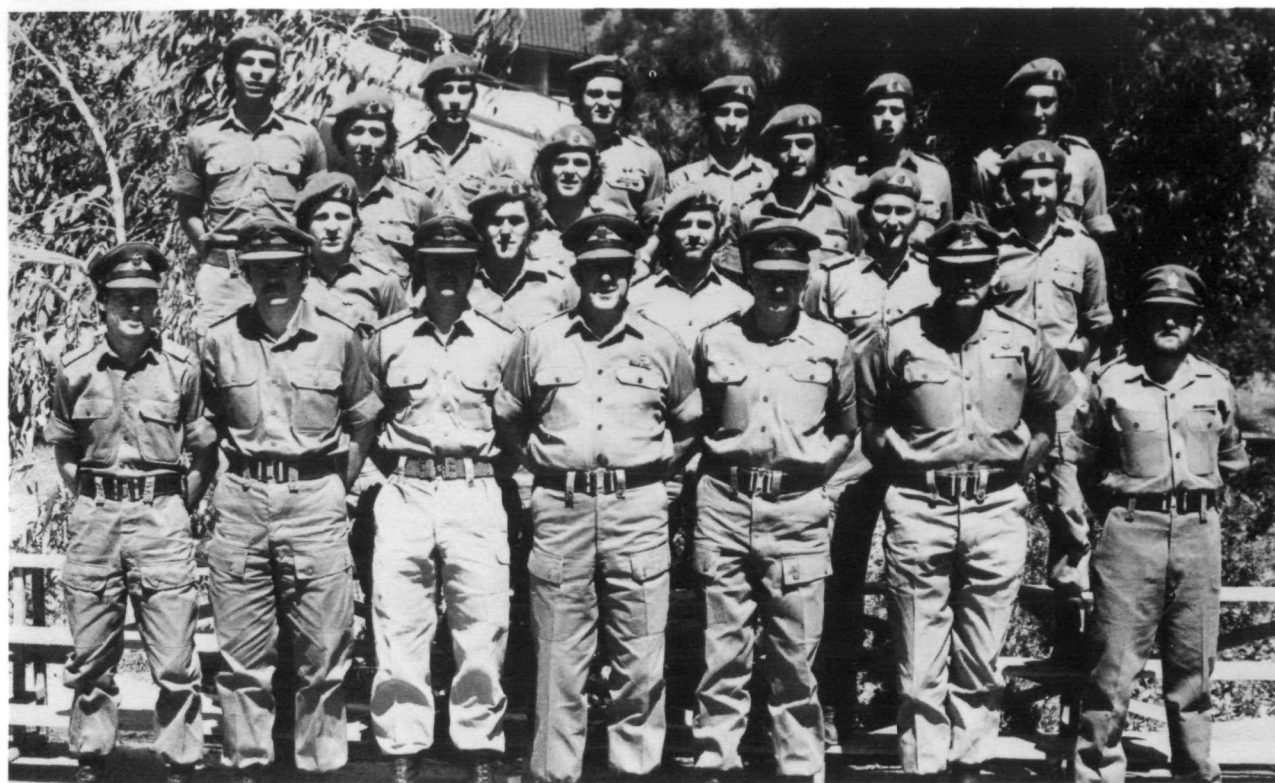

Camp development continues and it is pleasing to report that the four outside tables constructed by the Special Education group have been in constant use since their installation and their solid construction will ensure many years of useful life.

In addition, the quadrangle has been further levelled and now provides good drainage away from the main building and the end of this term will see the completion of the volley ball court to the east of the dormitory block.

By far the most important development for the year has been the effort by the Parents Association to meet the cost of a staff and parents residential cottage to be used by staff and interested parents during camp periods. Resulting from this offer the fathers of the Koorinal club have been an extremely active body and as this item is being written it can be reported that planning and site preparation for the cottage are in an advanced stage. We should be able to look forward to putting the cottage to use in 1980.

The 1979 Cadet year began, at least for some of its members, in a hot week late in January. This was the ill-famed promotions camp, where cadets from Guildford, Swanleigh and Christ Church went through a gruelling week of N.C.O. training. It was up at six o'clock every morning for a brisk run, and then a very full day's activities, learning everything from how to fill in a roll book to what to do if you're lost in the bush. It was hard work, and very satisfying when we had our final parade and received our badges of rank from Major Frost, Commander of 5 Cadet Group.

The cadet year really began, however, after the year 10's had been issued their uniforms and we got stuck into serious training for the annual bivouac at Koorngal. 'A' Company cadets had a few weeks of drill followed by bushcraft, first aid, and radio procedure, while the 2nd. and 3rd. year cadets in Support Company learned how to treat people injured in disasters, how to handle a canoe, or the best way to lash logs together.

During first term, Christ Church also continued its tradition of competing in the City to Surf Fun Run which resulted in about thirty exhausted but happy cadets, a certificate for each of them, and a second or two T.V. coverage of the group double-timing with perfect precision across the finishing line.

The Koorngal bivouac against Guildford at the end of first term was a success again this year, with everyone enjoying being out in the bush and trying to outwit the enemy. The training expedition for the Duke of Edinburgh award scheme was also accomplished with a long walk from Koorngal to our bush campsites.

Second term was one of more intensified and advanced training for the main event of the cadet year, the Northam Camp. When finally the time came around to leave on one Saturday morning late in the term, everyone was eager and looking forward to the week ahead.

Some of our hopes were dampened, however, when it rained almost continuously for the first three days, and was near to freezing point every night. During this time, we braved the wet and cold to enjoy training on and firing the Armalite rifle, a new experience for most cadets. The weather was a bit clearer, however, by the time we were ready to set off on the highlight of the camp, the Duke of Edinburgh exercise where 'A' Company would try to complete a thirty-kilometre walk from Northam to Toodyay despite constant harassment and flour bomb attacks by the sadistic Support Company Panther Groups. The exercise was once again a success, and differing from other years, sergeants and corporals were all given a chance to command their platoons in 'A' Company, excellent experience which I'm sure will prove itself in the future.

The last few days of camp were mainly spent in competing in several camp competitions, in which Christ Church did

*Beresford Memorial Trophy: C.U.O. T. Watts
The Alexander Todd Memorial Trophy: Cdt. C.D. Panting.
The Benbow Sash: Sgt. M. Wells.*

exceptionally well. We came first in the .22 calibre Ffennell Cup Shoot, which means that our team score will represent Western Australia against other Commonwealth countries. We also once again had a resounding win in the Confidence Course competition, with the team of five beating the nearest competitors by about twenty seconds. In other competitions, we gained second place in the 5 Cadet Group Challenge Cup Shoot and fourth place in the Orienteering Competition.

I feel I speak for the whole unit when I report that the cadet activities for 1979 have been a resounding success and this can be attributed to a number of factors. Firstly the unit itself — they are really a great group of cadets who learnt quickly, and rapidly developed a sense of belonging. Our thanks are extended to Major Frost and the staff of 5 Cadet Group who, in only eighteen months, have breathed new life into the Cadet movement, these are men you seldom see and never hear but through our weekly "O" group you feel their presence. Major Frost also honoured the unit by rewarding our two "on staff" officers for their long hours of work and planning by promoting them to Major Fraser and Captain Tooke.

To all our other officers, Lt. May "the veteran", Lt. "Sign here lad" Bishop, Lt. "Stuey" Finch, and Lt. "Bushy" Bradshaw a very sincere thank you for your expertise and tireless effort. To our two newest officers, Lt. Corse and Lt. Hudson, it is both welcome and thank you for all you have done this year. It is interesting to note that the officers of this unit have between them something in excess of 90 years service in the Regular Army, Reserve Army and the Cadet Movement and a combination of that, the right type of cadet and the support received from the Headmaster and staff must surely be our basis of success.

The bad news always takes a back seat so here it is — Lt. Finch who finishes his University studies this year has resigned from the unit to practise his new profession. We will miss you Stuey and we wish you all you wish yourself, good luck and thanks. Capt. Tooke has accepted a twelve month posting to Marlborough College, one of England's leading schools to broaden his knowledge. We do not think he needs that and we will miss his guiding hand during training 1980. It is rumoured that the Major has issued a leave pass for twelve months and one minute to guarantee his return in 1981. Good luck "Nipples" and don't break up the team please — come back!

Finally it is my sincere hope that next year's unit will have the same invaluable support and the resulting success and enjoyment which the cadets of 1979 have had.

M. Wells.

BOARDING HOUSE NOTES

WATERS HOUSE

Visitors to the school may be excused if they believe that Walters Boarding House has been replaced by a modern building based on the design of the old one, for the whole boarding house has been renovated to a large degree. Quiet aptly, it has been painted the house colour and now the white house stands in all its glory, dominating the school with its commanding position.

The internal renovations have involved the construction of either a single or double cubicle for every student. Each unit is self-contained with each student having a desk, bed, individual study lights and clothing storage space. On at least two of the walls there is a facility for posters and any other objects they may wish to decorate their cubicles with. These "other objects" have ranged from Indonesian Batiks through to a ram's skull and a high scoring economics assignment.

These self-contained cubicles have allowed, very importantly, for each individual to be himself and to place himself, within reason, in an environment which he chooses, allowing him to express his personal tastes, instead of being required to totally conform, as has been the case until now. An increased degree of independence has been granted to the individual and each student's own personality can be discovered by other students, leading to a better understanding and communication between members of the house.

A trend which has become apparent to me in my five years in Walters, is the increased willingness to accept change and the extraordinary. In institutions, such as a boarding house, the non-conformist is often regarded as a threat and so is subject to a large degree of pressure from his peers. This concept has begun to disappear in Walters and I hope, in ensuing years, it will eventually dissipate, for it results in far more broadmindedness and ability to cope with diverse situations.

The boarding house staff have ensured that the house has been kept in working order during the times of inconvenience. I must thank them too, on behalf of the 76 students, for being understanding and helpful when we have needed guides be it in homework or personal matters, especially Mrs. Abbott, our housemother, and Mr. London, our senior housemaster, whose willingness to help or even just talk to us have made life far more homely for many of the students. Also thanks to Mr. Thomas, Mr. Cameron and Mr. Hedland-Thomas, who assisted with the administration of the house.

Finally the eight other prefects must be thanked for their efforts in ensuring the smooth running of the house.

This year has been the first of the new look Walters. I hope to see it continue with students from all walks of life and all parts of the world living and learning together, forming a friendly community in the "Whitehouse".

McCLEMANS HOUSE

We started and finished the year with the staggering total of six Year 12's (the House Prefects) the task of quelling the riots and uprisings of the boys looked awesome, but largely due to the efforts of Mr. House and the Housemasters and the overall co-operation of the boys, life wasn't too bad.

"Tall" Troy McDonald proved to be the remedy needed for our entrance into Mr. Christ Church. After gentle persuasion he finally consented and the whole event turned out quite successfully.

The Boarders' Social Committee was represented this year by Ash McDonald, Paul Michael, Glenn Moir, James Beck and Mark Bonadeo and they were able to bring up other things apart from the food. James Beck aided the course of discussion with intricate descriptions of any hairs found in the food.

When Matron took over she received plenty of help from the Sick Bay Monitors who provided great service and were able to show her the ropes.

Thanks must go to Paul "Koala" Michael for his effort in designing the house symbol (that of the flying eagle) and also to Ash McDonald who cut out and screen printed the many singlets and the common room wall.

"Sleepy" Rohan Whittington, Bruce "Podge" Parnham, "Cheese" O'Connor and Phillip "Porky" Smith provided a never failing service of projectionists and thanks must go to them for their untiring efforts and for the organization of the films.

Simon "Sas" Roberts provided a valuable mail service which was appreciated by all. Both he and Andrew O'Connor will be leaving us at the end of this year and their easy going placid natures and house participation will be missed. Phillip "Smirk" Cassie, Dave Broome, Paul Bayliss and Ian "Norm" Giles will also be leaving and their house involvement and attitude has been appreciated.

The Koorinal camp was a success this year, as always, and apart from a Friday night washout and shortage of sleep for some people it was enjoyed by all. Thanks to those people involved in the organization of the camp, especially the Year 11's and also Tim "Ginger Nut" Watts who nipped out the obstacle course.

Mrs. Cramer's care and kindness has been deeply appreciated by many boys in the past years as Housemother of McClemans. A special thanks must go to her this year (her last) for her contribution to the house.

Also leaving the house this year is Mr. House whose support and valuable advice has been beneficial to many. A hearty thanks also to Mrs. House, whose cooking efforts were always greatly appreciated. Thanks also to the Assistant Housemasters Dave Rigney, Tim Gibuma and Col Fredricks whose hard work was inspiring.

Finally, on behalf of McClemans, I'd like to wish Mr. and Mrs. House and Mrs. Cramer all the best in the future.

Best of luck also to all members of McClemans House in 1980.

HOUSE NOTES

Craigie House

House Masters: H. Woodall; D.M. Southwell; P.J. Rickey; P.J. Lund; D.M. Van Kempen.

House Officials: Captain T.J. Flaherty; Vice-Captain D.D. Hankey; Secretary M.I. Cearns.

Craigie house started the year well by winning the inter-house swimming sports and then followed by winning the lifesaving. With these victories tucked under our belt and our morale high, we forged forward and at the time of publication Craigie were still narrowly in front of the other seven houses.

House spirit this year has hit an all-time high with the boys eagerly volunteering to participate in inter-house competition. Our housemasters, Mr. Woodall, Mr. Van Kempen, Mr. Lund, Mr. Rickey and Mr. Southwell have helped us considerably by being at all of our matches and organizing winning teams.

Craigie has always had depth of talent in the Middle School, but this year the Middle School have performed even better. The Senior School boys have also kept a good record in all the inter-house sports.

Mr. Van Kempen is rumoured to be leaving us at the end of the year and all of us would like to thank him for the tremendous effort he has put into the House.

Craigie also lead the houses in the printing of emblems on house singlets. Craigie's emblem was a large "C" with a lightening bolt piercing it. A masterpiece of elegant design.

Finally I would like to thank all involved in the house this year, especially our House Captain Tim Flaherty for his leadership.

M.I. Cearns

Jupp House

House Officials: Senior Housemaster Mr. R.T. Woollett; Assistant Housemasters Mr. C.H. Watkins; Mr. C.J. Williams; Mr. K.W. Hopkins; Miss L.F. Day; House Captain E.C.A. Sinclair; Vice-Captain M.L. Goodridge; A.L. Newman; D.G. Raad; A.D.J. Watts.

1979 has been a year of great development for Jupp House. We started off the year determined to change the accepted view that Day-boy Houses were merely in existence to provide convenient sub-divisions within the school, for the purpose of competition in sport. A healthier school spirit would exist if spirit was more openly encouraged within each of the eight houses. In past years the Boarding Houses have dominated at Inter-House sports carnivals, but this year the sound of the Jupp war-cry at the swimming and lifesaving stunned everybody, as did our new house singlets at the house athletics later in the year. We performed well at the house lifesaving and swimming carnivals but we really let the true Jupp fire roar when we won, overall, the inaugural Inter-House

Winter Sports. Jupp House proved to be invincible at rugby, football and hockey!

This year's Athletics Carnival ended with all houses placed within points of each other. Jupp came 5th overall but only 15 points from the 4th place getter — Craigie. Unfortunately there were too many individuals in this year's team and as a result valuable points were lost due to events being missed. However, special mention must be made of our Middle School team who easily dominated in their respective age groups. Chris Shenton broke two records and became Under 14 Champion Boy. Clive Bowman and Jeremy Law performed exceptionally in winning their respective field and track events. The climax of the Middle School's success came when they won their tug-of-war championship. Keep it up boys! In the Senior School Craig Ross won the Open 1st Division 3000m to become Jupp's own C.C.G.S. Marathon Man.

We started the year with a house barbecue lunch (another Jupp first) but our most outstanding achievement this year was to be the first Day-Boy House to have a house camp. Our activities at Koorngal ranged from 6 o'clock jogs in the morning through hill-trolley racing to a full length feature movie on the last night. Although the entire house could not attend, those who did returned having enjoyed a thoroughly good time. Thanks must go to Mr. Fraser, Mr. Woollett, Mr. Hopkins and finally to Miss Day, whose sacrifices included a broken finger nail, a black eye and a sprained ankle!

So 1979 was a new kind of year for Jupp. New ideas and attitudes were born in it and these will, hopefully, spread to the other Day-Boy Houses to make C.C.G.S. a better school. This year's Middle School proved to be a fine example of what school and house spirit and determination are all about.

I sincerely hope that Juppianians next year and the years to follow make a tradition of the house camp and further establish Jupp's new found reputation as the Day-House with the greatest spirit.

McClemans House

House Masters: R.F. House, G.P. Davis, P.M. Draper, J.R. Luttrell;

House Officials: Captain L.G. King, Vice-Captain R.A. McDonald, Secretary R.F. Michael.

Once again McClemans sporting house has proven itself in its sporting capabilities, to be tipped as a "Hot Favourite" by critics in winning the glorious Beatty Cup.

Although suffering a minor setback in the Inter-House swimming carnival, (which we would rather not talk about), McClemans surged forward in points gained from second place in the Inter-House lifesaving carnival. Star performances came from Neal "Womble" Worrell, whose speed and power on and in water have raised many eyebrows.

Although hampered by a small senior school, consisting of six strikingly handsome fellows, (if I say so myself) McClemans were fairly well represented in first teams at the beginning of the year. "Percy" Richmond of the first XI cricket, and Ash McDonald of the first VIII rowing team (who sadly pulled out of the winning Head of the River team due to back troubles). However, rumour has it that his demanding social life also played a major role in his step down from the first VIII.

Second term saw McClemans casually flex its muscles to draw overall equal first place in the Inter-House football with Walters — the angels in the virgin white outfits.

Hockey scored well for an overall 4th position but with only 2 rugby players in the house we didn't score well in Inter-House rugby.

The good guys in the purple were also well represented in the winter sport first teams, with ruckman Ashley McDonald, Paul Michael, Ian Putt, Mike Copeland and Glenn Moir, who slipped the team into top gear.

The first XI hockey also saw McClemans' talent, with representation by "Percy" Richmond and Neal Worrell.

Cross Country saw McClemans make yet another win, with brilliant all-round efforts, especially from the middle school teams and Nigel Drayton who broke the Under 15 record.

Third term saw massive turnouts of McClemans' boys at the athletics standards, which spirited a mighty second place in the Inter-House athletics competition. The same day saw "Potential" Asher McDonald take the Open Championship, Mal Thomson take the Under 15 Championship, and Ken Badger collecting the Under 16 Championship.

A comment after collecting the prize from "Asher" was "... I just won by a nose ..." and Mal Thompson was quoted as saying "... most of my jumps were all aborted ..." Ken Badger was also heard saying "... I reckon I needed as many legs as a spider to win that race ...".

McClemans as expected was also well represented in the school athletics team at the Inters. After witnessing a fantastic year for McClemans I would like to conclude with many thanks and a big "Hoo-Ray" for Mr. House for all the encouragement and support he has given McClemans this year, and also thanks to the award winning McClemans' tutorial masters Mr. Draper, Mr. Davis and Mr. Luttrell. It is my wish that the strength of the McClemans House spirit and abilities is carried on for many more years to come.

Noake House

House Masters: Mr. J.A. Pemberton; Mr. R.E. Merrells; Mr. L.P. Radanovich; Mr. H. Ryder; Mr. K.R. Malcolm.

House Officials: Captain A.C. Sullivan; Vice-Captain P.C.A. Hobbs; Secretary C.H. Chan; House Prefects D.B. Cameron, G.J. Pritchard, R.K. Northey.

This year we Noakeans believe that we have improved the most out of all the houses. There are several reasons for this, whatever they are they have certainly worked. Just look at the results in first term.

Craigie knew all about us when we just let them come 1st in the swimming; our second success was the lifesaving when we came 3rd. Several 'cool surfers' helped us in the water; Radical Ray and a couple of Fitz's to name a few. When it was cricket time, Matey mouth Milligan and his misfits were favourites to win. All Noakeans took great pleasure in telling them how Noaks beat Walters. With 'Smiley' Cameron, 'Rat' Paris, 'Big (the bigger one) Barts' and 'Whity' how could we lose? Our house's lack of tennis players didn't stop us from coming 3rd. By the end of 1st term we were coming 2nd overall. We were so happy we decided to take a holiday, not realising we had to play basketball. We still beat Jupp and Romsey.

In second term we all had fun spreading our talents. Our win in the hockey was expected; we always win the hockey. The 'Brown Bombers' didn't go so well in the Rugby because, all our players were playing footy. It was up there K 'Noake' to come 3rd. In debating we were unfortunately knocked out by Queenslea.

The over confident Jupp runners fell to their knees when Noake ran away in the cross country. Of course the boarders beat us, but they get so much practice at lunch time when they run to the dinning room.

We haven't finished yet, but we will go very well in the squash. We did very well in the athletics, and if our standards are good we should hold 3rd place. Some great performances by Tennekoon, Whitford and Pritchard helped us here.

Well it's all right to ramble on about how well we did, but none of this could have happened if we didn't have such a 'Giv-it-a-go' attitude. Its hard to thank all the stars, but really anyone whose name appears on the Noake House list is a star; thanks to all Noakeans. The backbone of the house is the crew that have helped me. Thanks go to — Mobes, Reg, Chin, Smiley, Lew, Pembo, Bob, Lazar, and the two newies, Mr. Ryder and Mr. Malcolm.

Queenslea House

House Persons: Mr. Hammond; Mr. Mountier; Mr. Morrissy; Mrs. Fortune; Mr. Froude.

House Prefects: P.T. Annear (House Captain); D.A. Hay (House Vice-Captain); M. Knox (Secretary); H. Carnachan (Treasurer); D. Thurling; D. Kleeman.

What has been said about Queenslea that hasn't already been said before. Queenslea, those Red Devils, have established themselves as a power in the Christ Church hierarchy. While we don't appear at the top, the myth created by the Reds has sent boarders knees a-knocking in fear of "the House" and its following.

Yes, in Queenslea it is not who plays that scares the opposition, but who follows, who abuses, befuddles and shatters. This is Queenslea, the house with eternal spirit; the house who draws the crowds into a frenzied excitement. Our accomplishments cannot be introduced in 300 words so a brief summary must suffice.

While a bold attempt to equip the Queenslea swimmers with auxillary outboards failed (due to dangers associated with the propellor), we still managed a 3rd with Freddie and Kermit French our star swimmers.

The summer and winter sport minor games weren't too successful, however the young bloods provided pleasing results. Of course the highlight in the cricket was when Michael Billingham lost two balls (one over Mr. Moyes House and one in M.L.C.) and a happy afternoon was spent looking for them.

Further into the big Q calendar and it's Mr. Christ Church that once again pulls in the crowd. And it was that Queenslea ever-red David Thurling, Red through to his hair roots who graced the occasion with his presence. In a gala presentation Dave appearing as a cross between Olivia Newton-John, David Bowie and Cleopatra, took off among other things 2nd place with the help of our beloved hybrid cross, Mrs. Fortune.

There are of course many Queenslea veterans whose five-year service has sadly ended. But in what style did they leave the arena that has been their home! Yes, Queenslea pulled off the big double. Basketball — 1st, Volleyball 1st. The final game was versus Walters our embittered rivals and the result saw the ending of an era; Queenslea pipped the boarders to take the big double. The game saw those Queenslea golden boys Dave and Mike Knox excel in their farewell performance. Kirky the man who in an unprecedented debating contest received 100 per cent for his Queenslea debate continued to shout witty puns to the Walters team. Morty, Tassie and coach Kleeman were jubilant, "Staff" jumped over the net, Mike Andrew pushed the fence in, Simon Lynn shut the gate and Murray Lang put the glasses down. We had won. That was when Dave Hay went wild. We haven't caught him since.

As to the future Queenslea is in good hands. With "youngun's" like Compton, Eccleston and Constable, and "middlun's" like Wrightson and the guidance of Messrs Hammond, Morrissy, Mountier, where can Queenslea go but upwards?

House Officials: R.J.L. Harding (Captain), G.J. Archer (Vice-Captain), D.M. Edge (Secretary), A.M.M. Hill (Treasurer).

Romsey has had a year of mixed fortunes. Overall House spirit was much improved, due largely to Mr. Dixon's desparate oratory at House meetings and the occasional public flogging of slackers — to encourage the others. Somehow, though we just didn't have the talent — at least not in those areas where they were awarding points. Now if twirling a double bass was a House competition we would have had the edge on everyone. I'm sure, too, that if only we could have a car rally our very own "Julie" would have romped in — provided it wasn't held in the rowing season.

As it was, despite the efforts of our web-footed friends like Mark Sweet, Gary Archer, Chris Samios and Gavin Michael, to name a few, we didn't exactly win the swimming or life-saving title. We did have our best representation ever.

We were at our most dismal in winter sports with the exception of rugby where our "heavies" the Pate Bros. and Julian Johnson showed how the game should be played. Football? What's that? We all play hockey! Did we win that? No, but there's some talent coming up in Year 8.

And so to the athletics where we did have our moments of glory. We can't mention everyone but we are justifiably proud of Robert Wall who was U/13 champion. Our sixth place on the day was no disgrace.

If there is a lesson to be learned from this year's experience it is this: regardless of talent or the lack of it, every boy must make his contribution. Too many people tend to say "what's the use? We might make seventh, the other Houses have all the talent". If everyone got in there and tried we could crack a fifth or a fourth place which is certainly better. We do seem to have had more than our share of selfish people to whom the House takes a poor second place. So the rest of you willing lads, keep it up and let's try and convert them in 1980.

Walters House

House Masters: Mr. A.H. London; Mr. P.S. Hopper; Mr. M.J. Sibson; Mr. P. Tooke.

House Officials: Captain W.S. Atkins; Vice-Captain R.L. Clarke; Secretary J.R.B. Lefroy.

Walters easy win by over 100 points at the house athletics carnival in early October stands to exemplify the spirit, dedication and team work of the house. The 1979 success follows very easy wins in 1977 and 1978.

Walters began the year well beating three home in the swimming carnival. Not an area that the house is well renowned for with ability, contributions like those of Mark Giblett, Jamie McGlew, Garry Elliott, Adam Rendell and Scott Moller assured us of a much better placing than in previous years.

Walters were represented in this years head of the River Regatta by Mark Giblett (2nd VIII), Steven Gray and Kim Forrester (16 VIII) and Mark Fraser (2nd IV).

With the re-introduction of house cricket, tennis, football, rugby, and hockey Walters achieved quite good results.

Luck did not go our way in the cricket where we finished 5th in the Senior School and last in the Middle School. Because we lost the first game in the Senior School we could only finish fifth. With 1st XI representatives of the calibre of Cameron Lewis, Willie Atkins, Shane Milligin and Michael Guest we should have done a lot better.

Walters professionalism showed itself in the tennis with the Senior School scoring and Middle School taking second money. Walters were represented in the 1st VIII this year by Ross Clarke.

A combination of ability and team spirit saw Walters win the Senior School football competition with 1st XVIII representatives as Cameron Lewis, Ross Clarke, Andy Bevan, Mark Giblett, Mark Cavey, Robert Grylls and Steven Norrie. The Middle School finished second, we came equal first overall.

The Senior School showed itself again in the rugby to win easily. 1st XV representatives this year were Willie Atkins (till injured), Donald Cameron, Terry Coulsen and Gary Elliott.

Walters also showed improvement in the house hockey coming 5th overall. A welcome return to form when compared with previous years.

Walters had to be content with second money in the house cross country run in mid August this year. Once again exceptional results were achieved by the Senior School only to be let down by the Middle School. The U/16 race was won by Robert Grylls with Peter McKenzie running 3rd. In the U/17 David Evans surprised when running 4th the whole team of five runners finishing better than twelfth — a consistent effort. In the open age group Cameron Lewis ran 8th and Ross Clarke 10th with a good performance overall.

This year Walters came equal first in the debating, this achievement speaks for itself. We also look like taking 1st or 2nd money in the athletics standards competition, underlining the spirit and team work of the house.

With outstanding contributions for the house in athletics were Cameron Lewis, Ross Clarke, Willie Atkins (open); Robert Rousset, Mark Giblett, Steven Norrie (U/17); Robert Grylls and Peter McKenzie (U/16) and Richard McKenzie (U/15). Not to mention numerous other contributors that made victory possible.

Walters finished off the day in no shorter than sensational fashion creating records in the Open and Under 17 relays. A great achievement.

With minor games not yet concluded Walters is playing for major positions in senior softball and squash after coming 2nd in the volleyball and 5th in basketball. The Walters Middle School softball team is also successfully advertising the stamp of Walters "professionalism" with a string of victories.

The continued success of Walters throughout the year in most fields of house activity shows the spirit within the house hardly matched by other houses and Walters now look the potential danger to win the 1979 Beatty Cup for the champion house.

Wolsey House

House Officials: House Captain W.H. Breidahl; Vice Captain P.R. Stone; House Secretary D.K. MacKenzie; House Treasurer M.B. Morrissey; Senior Housemaster K.J. Parish; Assistant Housemasters S.S. Strobel, D. Granger, B.D. Clarkson, J.R. Oxnam.

Although this year has not been a very successful one for Wolsey on the points table, the House spirit shown, particularly by Middle School members, has been incredible.

Early in the year the House held a "House Barbecue" and staff, senior students and newcomers to the House got together and relaxed. As a result the spirit in the House was high as we approached the first inter-house competitions, the swimming and lifesaving. Although we were not as successful in these competitions as we have been in previous years, good team spirit was shown. I would particularly like to thank Scott Rigney for his untiring efforts.

This year saw the introduction of House competition in the 5 major sports. Again our strength proved to be in the Middle School. They won both the Rugby and the Cricket. A special mention must be made of the Rugby side, which put in a particularly courageous performance. In the Senior School we did not fare as well. The Rugby lead by Andy "Dinger" King, could only manage 6th, whilst the football finished 5th. The best Senior School performance was in the cricket, in which we finished 3rd. It was a good team effort, with Peter "sheep" Buchanan getting the runs. Basketball saw a highly efficient and competitive Wolsey machine, finish an unlucky 3rd. Top performances were displayed by Scott Rigney and Mark Morrissey. At the time of writing the Minor Sports are in progress. The Middle School volley-ball team is in the grand final and the Senior School, led astutely by Ken "Robert Redford look-alike" O'Shea is doing extremely well.

I think that special mention must be made of the departure of Mr Holmes, a great Housemaster whose love and enthusiasm for the House will be missed by many.

On a brighter note, this year an inter-tutorial competition was introduced in Wolsey. Such a great leap forward showed just how superior and competitive Wolsey House is. The competition in anything from hand wrestling to snakes and ladders, was taken up in earnest for the stunning trophy — the bone of contention (a huge light blue coloured bone mounted on a shield). Exciting displays in arm wrestling by "Sasquatch" Yeo were a highlight of the year's competition. Hopefully the competition will continue next year as it helped to build up inter-tutorial competition, and a closer sense of unity among the members of each tutorial.

In conclusion I would like to thank the House Prefects and the Housemasters for all their help, in particular Mr Parish, Mr Granger, and Mr Clarkson for all that they have done. The future is quite bright for Wolsey.

AN ADDICT

*In a world of fantasy and illusion he lives
 For the next day and not the day before
 But without sustenance he becomes depraved
 With no mind of his own, but the ravings of a dog,
 Hungered, starving.
 Eyes red, hand shakes as he draws away his life,
 To last for a while till he's hungry again.
 Although a friend of mine, I wonder
 Will he know me when it's time to face reality?
 Come down from your cloud.
 Don't draw me upwards
 To your castle in the air.
 I'm scared of heights,
 I want to stay on the ground.*

MAISTER LONDON (with apologies to Chaucer)

*The school maister is square built and not thin;
 His beard is shaven not close to the skin,
 His thick hair comes abruptly to a stop.
 With a scarlet shirt he is decked on top,
 He keeps his shorts and jackets very trim;
 No headmaster can gain a point on him.
 No boy or older student dares to kick,
 He knows their dodges, knows their every trick.
 Feared like the plague he is, by those beneath.
 He hath lovely dwelling on boarder's heath.*

A HOLIDAY EXPERIENCE

The rickety bus jolted along the steamy tarmac and we gasped in astonishment at the awesome sight in front of us. Everyone thought that their eyes were deceiving them, but it was true — standing near the gray terminal building was a DC 8 airliner. We had been warned how ancient the Philippine Airlines aircraft were, but this was hard to believe.

As we climbed the stairs to the door of the plane, one ex-pilot in our tour group commented, joking on the baldness of the tyres. This did not help our already shaky nerves.

We had soon seated ourselves in the old, worn chairs and were ready for take-off. The fact that we barely cleared the swaying coconut palms on take-off had little to do with many passengers shrieking nervously. That was due to most of the bags tumbling from the unconventional racks overhead.

After a couple of hours of rough but uneventful flight from Manila, a voice crackled over the intercom:

"Thees ees yore Captain spikeeng. We are going to be making an unscheduled stop at Kota Kinabalu owing to hydraulic problems. Plees stay calm — there ees no need for panic".

A frantic scramble for maps in seat pockets ensued. We soon found that Koto Kinabalu existed in Northern Borneo.

Beginning its descent, the plane dipped its right wing and fifty pairs of eyes strained to penetrate the thick, swirling cumulus. Nothing was to be seen and we must already have been near the end of our descent. Suddenly, like being drawn through the eye of a whirlpool, we roared through an opening in the cloud to see a vast green jungle yawning beneath us. Where was the runway?

A thin brown strip appeared ahead. At the Captain's suggestion we flung ourselves into crash position — heads on knees, hands over heads. The craft did not slacken speed and, as if Thor had seized the tail and shaken it vigorously, we bounced down the runway. A shattering crash smote our ears as reversed thrust was applied at the last second.

In the ensuing silence we lifted our heads and saw, with rising panic, that black smoke was billowing past our windows. The doors were hastily wrenched open and hand-luggage and personal belongings were abandoned in the urgent scramble for safety.

Safely on terra firma once more we realised that the panic was un-necessary as the smoke was only caused by shredded tyres. Dripping green jungle surrounded us on the fringe of which stood an old tin shed masquerading as an airport terminal. Six hours were spent sheltering in there from the monsoon rains while the crew made valiant attacks on the pedal radio to contact the civilised world.

We watched our baggage being unloaded from our stranded craft, by brown skirted natives, onto bullock wagons which disappeared down a steaming jungle path. Would I ever see my trombone again?

Eventually a strange vehicle vaguely resembling a bus clattered alongside the shed. We were soon trundling down the route taken by the bullock wagons. Fifteen minutes later the dripping greenery parted to reveal a cluster of thatched native dyak huts in the foreground, and, much to our utter amazement, a large, white building looking suspiciously like a hotel in the background. As we stumbled out of the bus the words etched over the entrance glared down at us. "WARNING: There are fairly high penalties for criminal offences in this country. Improperly dressed persons not admitted. Drug traffickers will be shot." However, here we were admitted and housed very comfortably overnight.

Early the next morning, we resumed our seats on the patched-up DC 8. A cheer was raised for the Captain after a near-perfect take-off. As we levelled off, hostesses rushed up and down the aisles distributing free champagne.

Later, as Kuala Lumpur Airport loomed into view, a last message issued from our leader:

"Thees ees yore Captain spekeeng — plees fasten seat belts — we are about to land at Kuala Lumpur. I hope you have enjoyed thees trip. Plees fly Philippine Airlines again." This last comment was almost drowned by raucous laughter, interspersed with champagne — laden advice.

DEATH AND DESTRUCTION

It was a cold and windy Friday night, and the lights were dim. There was a bang, and a shriek and the wailing of a police siren, many voices. I lay down for the night and dropped off to sleep in the middle of a woman's scream.

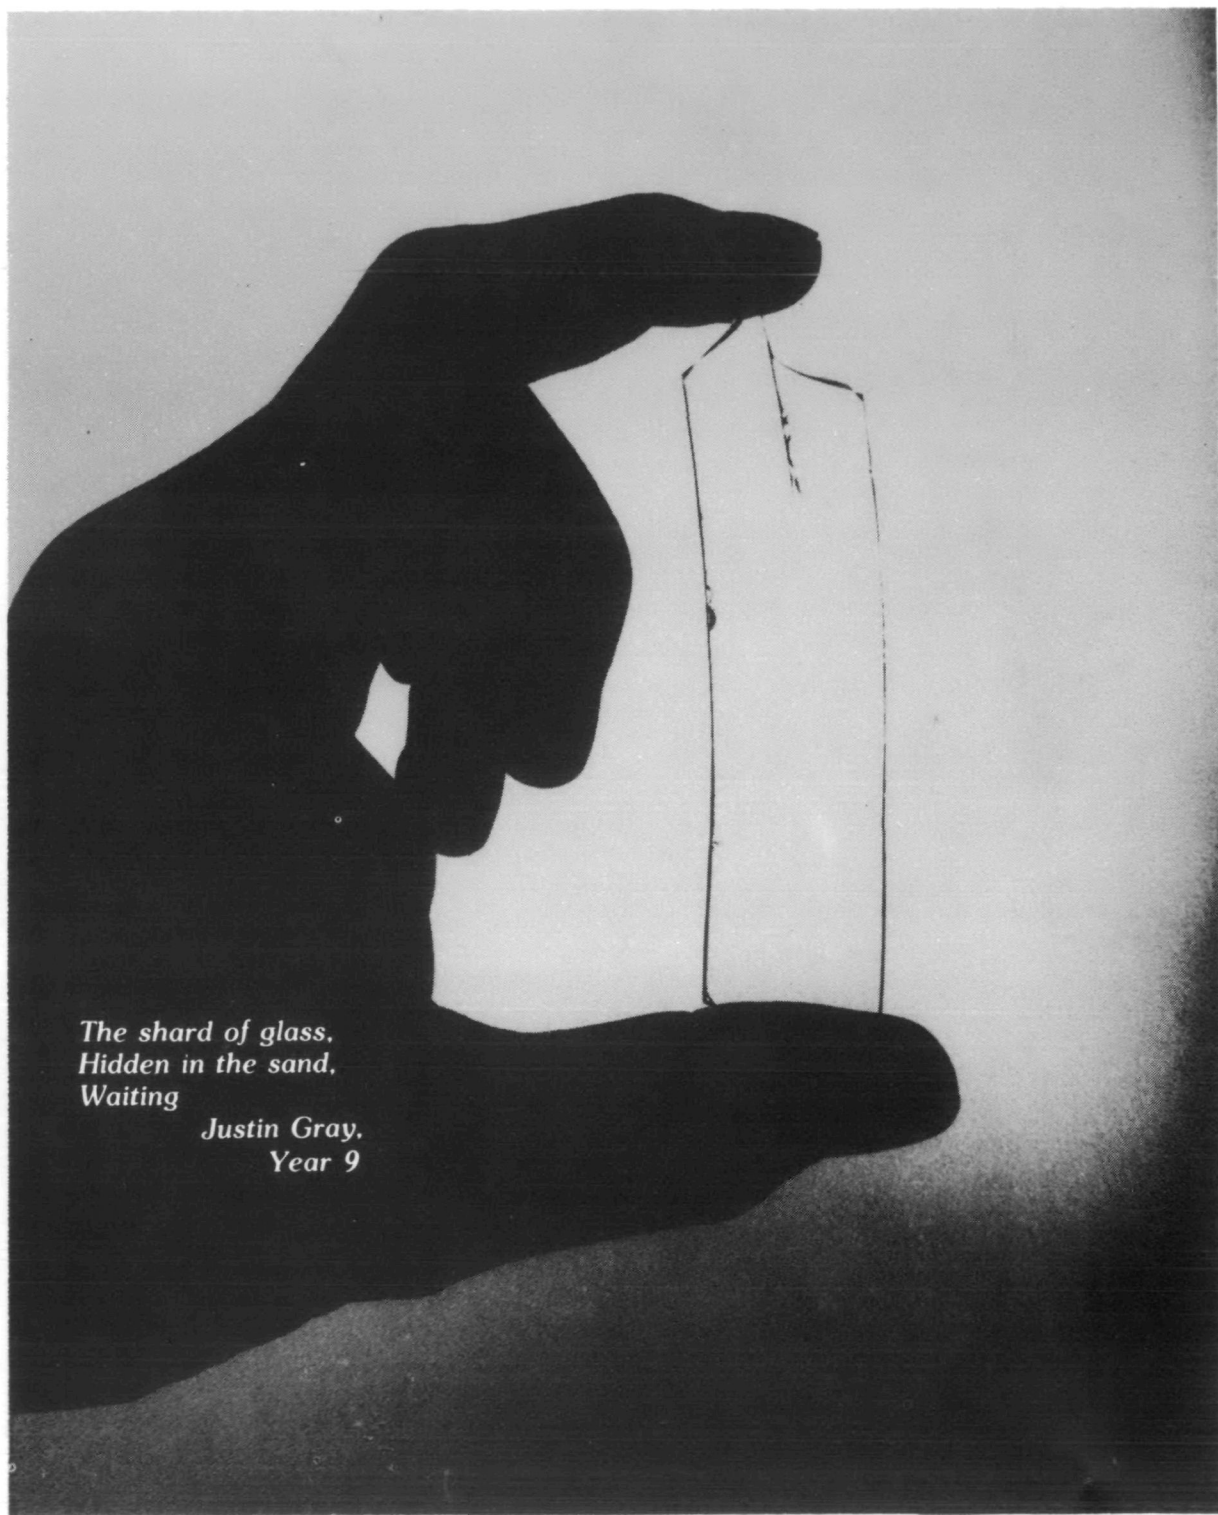

In the morning I woke to the sound of a brawl, dull thuds bring groans from a bruised and bleeding male. I went to the kitchen and made breakfast for myself. As I was eating, a piercing scream accompanied by the clashing of swords contested for my attention but to no avail.

Come lunch time and I was still witnessing death and destruction. I finished my lunch and yawned and dozed off. I was woken by silence. I went into the house and made tea. I was aroused from thought by the high-pitched whistle of bombs falling on some unfortunate town, later on there was the staccato sound of machine gun fire.

Full warfare was waged on Sunday, bombs, machine guns, saboteurs. On Monday I awoke to the soft hum of lazer fire; a boring day. The day ended with a solar system of radio-active planets.

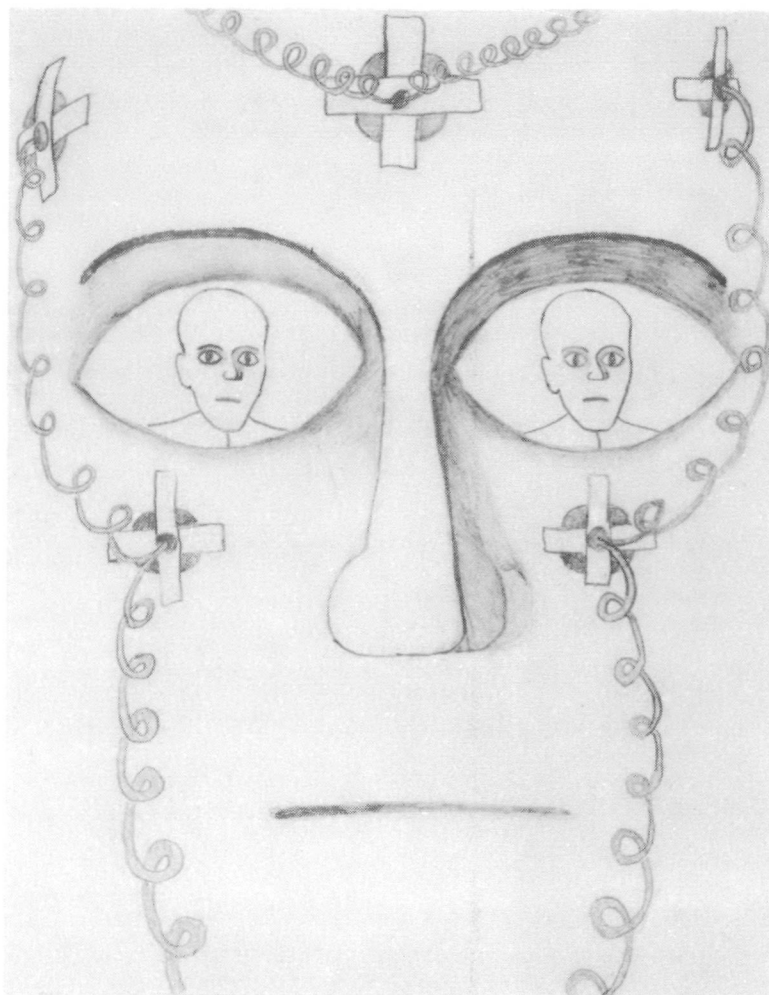

So ended an average weekend on T.V.

THOUGHTS AND OBSERVATIONS OF A 22ND CENTURY STUDENT

The powerful green floodlights shine on the school campus in their vibrant way, mimicing the brilliance of the sun which will rise in about four hours. Looking above my naked head I can see a space shuttle hurtling across the sky in a splash of red, enveloped in the dark canopy which is peacefully settled above the day-like surface. Disappearing over Swanbourne Hill, its roar gradually dissipates into the silence of the mid-morning shift. Next semester I hope to be put on the morning to mid-day shift so I can be with my friends whilst at school. Even though I am not permitted to talk to them whilst on campus it will be pleasant to see them during my study time. If this is to eventuate I must improve my grades so my application will be approved.

Looking around the surface world, embalmed in its green light, I can see members of a Year 11 form undergoing their swimming lessons in the old pool built near the Stirling Linc-Route. The speaker suspended above the heavily chlorinated water blares out its familiar instructions to the students, who, today, appear to be learning water rescue techniques. If students fail to undergo an instruction correctly the electrodes at each end of their lanes jump to life, sending a bolt of electricity through their white, untanned bodies to ensure they will not make the mistake again. However, this form appears to be made up of good students and there is no need for any of them to be punished.

Turning my back on the pool I cast a glance in the direction of the newly-opened museum which traces school history back to 1910. The outside exhibition for today is a mannequin dressed in a uniform of the 1960's. I detect many students' hidden amusement at the obsolete uniform consisting of unnecessary items such as caps, coloured socks and ties. Perhaps the most interesting comparison I can make with my own uniform is the badge which appears on their caps and suit coat pockets. We are told that is a symbol used by a pagan faction of the day, and it differed from the symbols of other schools in the Federation who belonged to different factions. Looking down at my own body, tightly clad in blue polythene material, I see only one badge: the badge of the Australasian Federation which is worn by all students at all schools. Looking, again, at the pagan symbol, the thought of such distinct human differentiation makes me recoil with disgust at the social atrocities of the 20th century, and I know that progress through standardization is the only way to universal co-operation.

Next to the museum a volleyball match is in progress. Our 1st XI is playing a team from a nearby school. Both teams play in their polythene uniforms, which are used for all activities, the only difference being the colour of the polythene material; the visitors having a lighter blue uniform. The federal badge, worn by both teams on the left breast, however, acts as a reminder that we are basically the same people . . . There are no supporters in the immediate vicinity of the game and neither teams offer encouragement amongst themselves. However the game is a very important one, both teams needing to win to qualify for a place in the provincial finals. The game continues with my school winning a vital point. I feel the excitement rise in me and I have to hastily suppress the violent urge to express my support for the team, for I know that I am under continual scrutiny from the administration department, and to facially or vocally indicate a bias would be devastating to my record. The faces of the players are expressionless in the artificial, translucent light of mid-morning which beams down on the campus to allow us to overcome the limiting factor of time and utilize the educational facilities we are provided with.

While thinking about the utilization of time, I glance at my watch and realize it is 1.40 a.m., and that I have only twenty minutes of my feed break left. Moving towards the Food Dispensary Service I pass the hundreds of sleeping students who lie in the massive, bubble-like, transparent recuperation domes. Their peaceful faces indicate that they have no knowledge of the nocturnal goings on outside the domes, thus proving the efficiency of our recently installed electronic coma device which makes dreaming and light sleeping a thing of the past. It also allows the students to be fully refreshed, enabling maximum intellectual absorption when they attend classes. I leave them in their world of total oblivion, knowing that I, and other students of the mid-morning shift, will be inhabiting those same beds in two hours for our recuperation period.

Looking outside the school boundary I see the electrified buses travelling along the Stirling Linc-Route like eternal insects; busily transferring people from place to place. Their green and white metallic bodies, daubed with the federal badge, move up the Linc-Route and out of my sight to places I have never seen. Occasionally a small vehicle belonging to the federation travels past, but these are only used by senior public servants, such as my father's brother who works for the Ministry of Youth Psychology and Affairs.

I hasten towards the Food Dispensary Service, for I now only have fifteen minutes of my feed break left before I must attend the daily dismissal assembly, which occupies the entire last two periods. Drawing closer to the service I notice that several other students are also purchasing their meals. I recognise one student who has been in my form for several years. I still don't know her name, but, regardless of this fact, she smiles at me; radiating a feeling of trust and warmth. I become very frightened and, unsure of myself I turn my back on her and devote my time and thought to my meal selection. After making my choice of type "E", consisting of a solid cereal block, a vitamin concentrate drink and a pill which is provided free and by order of the federation, for which there is no real explanation, I hurriedly consume it and make my way toward the assembly hall where all students of the mid-morning shift gather silently for the dismissal assembly. The faces are mostly familiar to me and I deliberately avoid the girl who had smiled at me only minutes before, for she may cause me to displease the administration.

The doors of the hall open and we silently make our way to our allocated seats, which we have occupied so many times before. On the stroke of 2.00 a.m. music crackles into life over the speakers. We all stand, and in perfect tune and time, we join together in singing the Song of Federal Allegiance. Looking around I see the many happy faces of students who sing with vitality and vigour . . . and I know that we are all safe from the enemy under the kind wing of our Federation.

3 A.M. ON A "GREYHOUND"

*The purr of the motor goes on through the endless night,
Non stop from Perth to 'Hedland
Only guided by the lights up front.
Beaming like antennae on a migrating moth.*

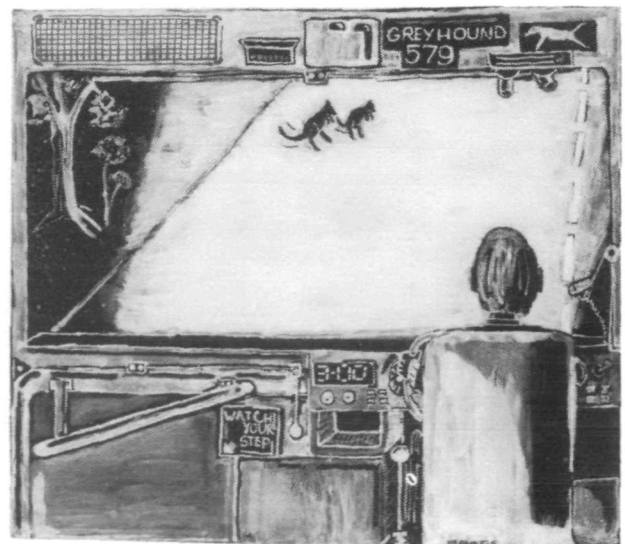

*No one stirs in their seats except two young Aboriginal girls,
Who sit by themselves at the back.
Their talk is quiet and soft . . . very soft.
It is unclear, yet mystical,
Transmitting the dreamtime spirit up to and beyond the treeless and barren horizons,
Which stretch in all four directions,
Overwhelmingly gigantic and terrifying.*

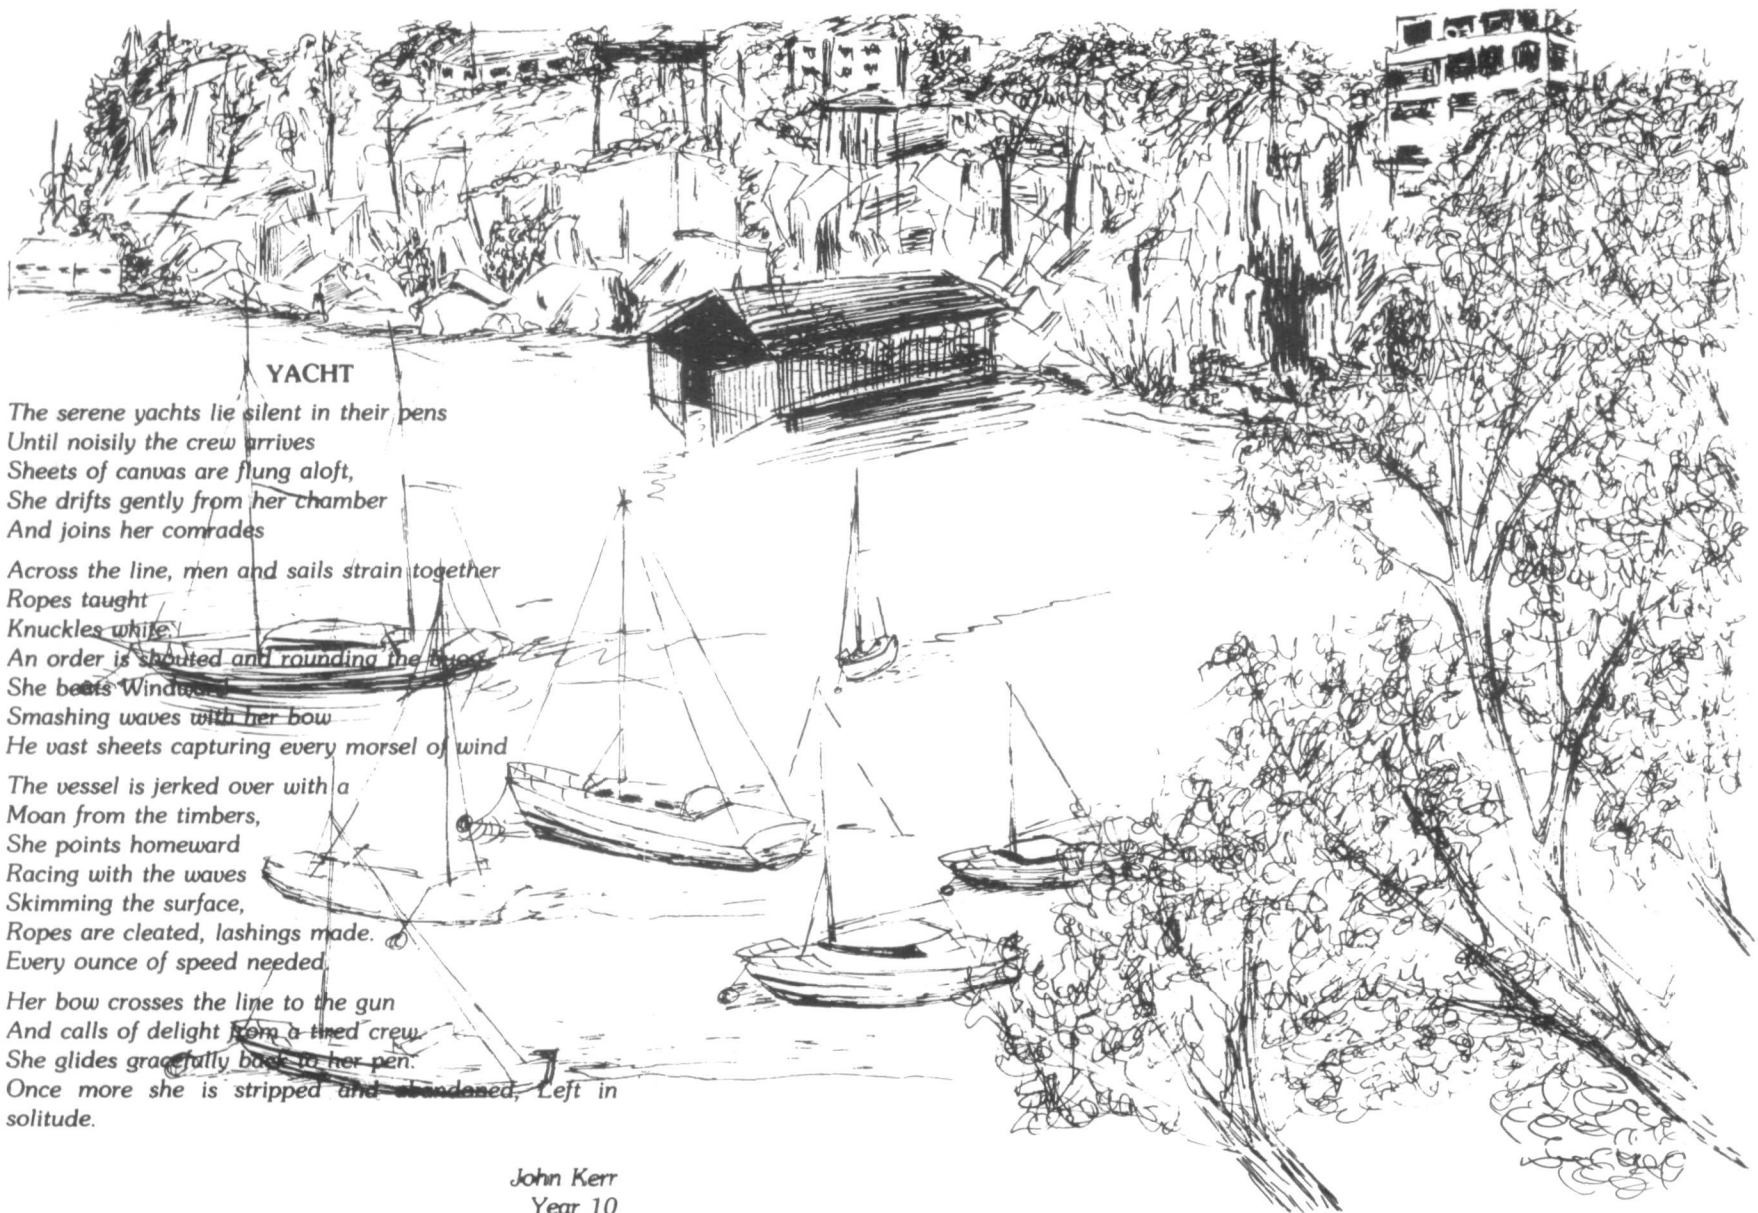

*The passengers are enveloped in discomfort,
Lying curled up on their seats — sleeping only slightly,
They dream of their destinations up the road.
All are engrossed in a swirling delirium of what is ahead . . . And what they've left behind*

*Unaware of their fellow passenger's plight,
Their destinies may seem disjointed, yet,
The forgotten man at the wheel controls them all.
He sits, gazing into nothingness it seems.
But he provides a model of concentration
His eye fixed on the white line, his mind deep in thought,
He is only disturbed by 'roos or lean, Pilbra cattle,
Making the hazardous crossing.*

*We are a lost wanderer guided by an endless tar track.
For all we know we maybe the only people on this planet,
The rest liquidated in a nuclear holocaust . . .
Around us there is nothing . . .*

YACHT

The serene yachts lie silent in their pens
Until noisily the crew arrives
Sheets of canvas are flung aloft,
She drifts gently from her chamber
And joins her comrades

56

Across the line, men and sails strain together
Ropes taught
Knuckles white
An order is shouted and rounding the bend
She beats Windward
Smashing waves with her bow
He vast sheets capturing every morsel of wind

The vessel is jerked over with a
Moan from the timbers,
She points homeward
Racing with the waves
Skimming the surface,
Ropes are cleated, lashings made.
Every ounce of speed needed.

Her bow crosses the line to the gun
And calls of delight from a tired crew
She glides gracefully back to her pen.
Once more she is stripped and abandoned, Left in solitude.

IT

Don't panic!
 As the brown, dark, slippery, curly body,
 Slid, stiffly and silently.
 Savagely and dangerously, it glided towards me.
 Vibrations on the ground could be felt,
 Something thumping thunderingly
 With the beat to the second
 It was my heart.
 The rattling on its end,
 The hissing on its front,
 With the cool movements of its body,
 It advanced closer to me.
 Still and soundless as could be,
 I didn't twitch a bit.
 As the eyes received what was happening.
 The heart kept on thumping.
 Straining every muscle,
 It crawled up my shivering knees,
 Cruel and cunningly,
 It crept up my body.
 Sweat kept pouring out,
 And my body was burning,
 But the coldness of its body,
 Made me ticklish.
 Feeling the sensation of laughter,
 Made it curious.
 So down my knees it crawled
 Onto the ground beneath
 I saw it go,
 Under the brilliant sun,
 And my last sweat dropped,
 Which made me sigh from relief

LOST LOVER

Plodding footsteps
 sand between toes
 waves reaching for jeans
 rolled above knees
 Salt-sprayed tee-shirt
 shading sunburnt shoulders
 Arms dangle lifeless mind wandering amongst the waves
 Eyes in her wind burnt face peering over waves
 endlessly searching . . .
 Never finding.
 Looking to sea
 waiting, hoping.
 unwilling to lose a lover
 the ocean's victim
 yesterday's sailor
 today's headlines
 tomorrow's . . .
 forever's memory

WATER

I am the water
 I encompass all, but never conquer
 I flow around the rocks
 And through the reeds,
 I come from heaven
 To the mountains
 And thence to the valleys
 And the seas
 No man can live without me,
 Nor within,
 I am a huge expanse
 And yet a tiny drop
 I am the water

TRIUMPH

Afterthoughts fly through my head,
 Taking the form of suggestions
 And fleetness of thought
 I experience again,
 The loneliness,
 Solidarity,
 Barrenness,
 Cold.

Tasting the cold, salty water,
 On my lips,
 I relive it again,
 And cherish the memory
 Of triumph.

I am proud
 To be remembering
 The torture of triumph,
 Surrounding my saggingly
 Exhausted body.
 The feeling of victory.
 It is good,
 To be a pioneer among the masters
 Of triumph
 Men of high valour,
 In high places
 Triumphists
 Praise to be self enterprise.

CONCENTRATION!

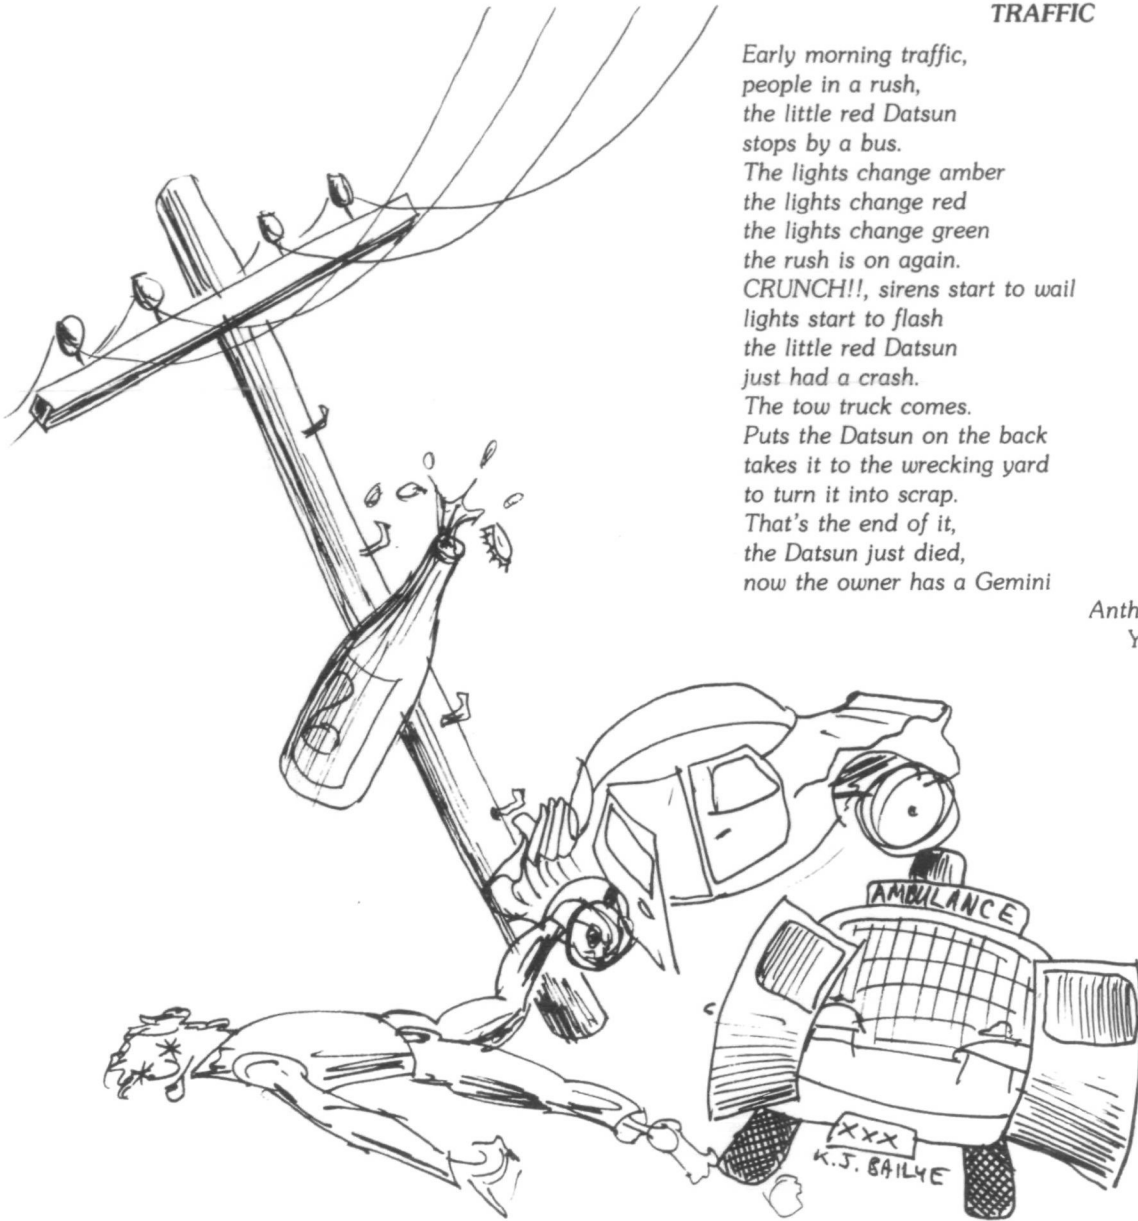

The archer aims, relaxes, concentrates
 Every muscle straining silently, bulging out of proportion
 Shut off from the outside world;
 Hearing only the beat of his heart,
 Sweat, dripping from his face shines in the sunlight,
 Every muscle burning . . . screaming with the pain,
 He releases, unleashing a tremendous force within him
 Hurling through the humid air speeds the deadly rocket of death,
 Closer, Closer
 Homing swiftly on its prey,
 Strike!

TRAFFIC

Early morning traffic,
people in a rush,
the little red Datsun
stops by a bus.
The lights change amber
the lights change red
the lights change green
the rush is on again.
CRUNCH!!, sirens start to wail
lights start to flash
the little red Datsun
just had a crash.
The tow truck comes.
Puts the Datsun on the back takes it to the wrecking yard
to turn it into scrap.
That's the end of it,
the Datsun just died,
now the owner has a Gemini

This season we played three matches against other schools, defeating Hale, but suffering losses to Scotch and Wesley. The team played well all season, but I thought some of our efforts could have been more cons'tent. Our best bowlers throughout the season were Stephen Forgan and Nicky Rose. John Hui displayed outstanding talents with the bat in games, with scores of 16n.o., 31n.o. and 50, finishing the season with an average of 97.

hockey

The large number of boys electing to play hockey this year placed a severe strain on staff resources. We were very fortunate to have Mr Moss and Mr Caldera to assist with the coaching.

Competition was keen for places in the 1st XI, and a sound team resulted. The Lightning Carnival at Scotch College saw our team win three and draw one game out of five, which was a commendable performance considering that five of the regular players were away due to illness.

The "A" Softball side played very well this year. We didn't lose a single game but we drew one with Wesley. I'm glad to see that a greater interest is being taken in Softball, as many of the younger boys now play. Consistent best players throughout the year were N. Bowman and J. Sears.

CHRIST CHURCH SCHOOL CHOIR

Dear Readers,

Over the past year all the members of the Choir have had a busy time. As usual we have had the Family Service at the beginning and end of each term but the Choir has also been singing on a number of other occasions. In March we sang the first movement of the "Magnificat" by Pergolesi, all in Latin, how about that!!

In both First and Second Terms we presented Choral Items for the Preparatory School including three more songs from Benjamin Britten's "Friday Afternoons", the Negro Spiritual "Little David Play On Your Harp" and Offenbach's "The Gendarmes' Duet". Some of the boys were really funny in the way they told everybody what they wanted to be if they were not choristers. Peter McSkimming singing upside down will be a sight never to be forgotten.

It has been an exciting year, all the boys have really enjoyed being members of the choir.

All the best from the four team leaders,

Senses at the ICECREAM FACTORY

The cone felt like a rough rock.
Andrew.

I heard a lot of other voices and the machines grumbling.
Justin.

We couldn't touch the machinery, but the sticks of the ice cream and the cone.
Digby.

The fudge bar was nice and sweet. The cone was warm and crunchy. I liked the nuts and the ice cream in the drum-stick.
Alastair.

Mrs Daniels let us go into the cold freezer room. It was very cold.
Ti-kok.

Year 3

I heard the clanging and banging as the machines turned to make the slap-sticks.
Piers.

I saw all the mothers with caps on, and all the cakes.
Ian.

You could smell the nice warm cones. You could smell vanilla.
Reese.

By the sense of sight we saw machines making ice cream, then packing it and putting labels on different things.
Wynand- Jon.

I saw machines, people, ice creams, hats, aprons and conveyor belts.
David.

I could touch icecream and rails on stairs and the gates at the front of the factory.
Charles.

The best of all I tasted two icecreams they gave me.
Michael.

In the cake decorating room we saw ice cream cakes shaped like footballs and dolls.
Brandon.

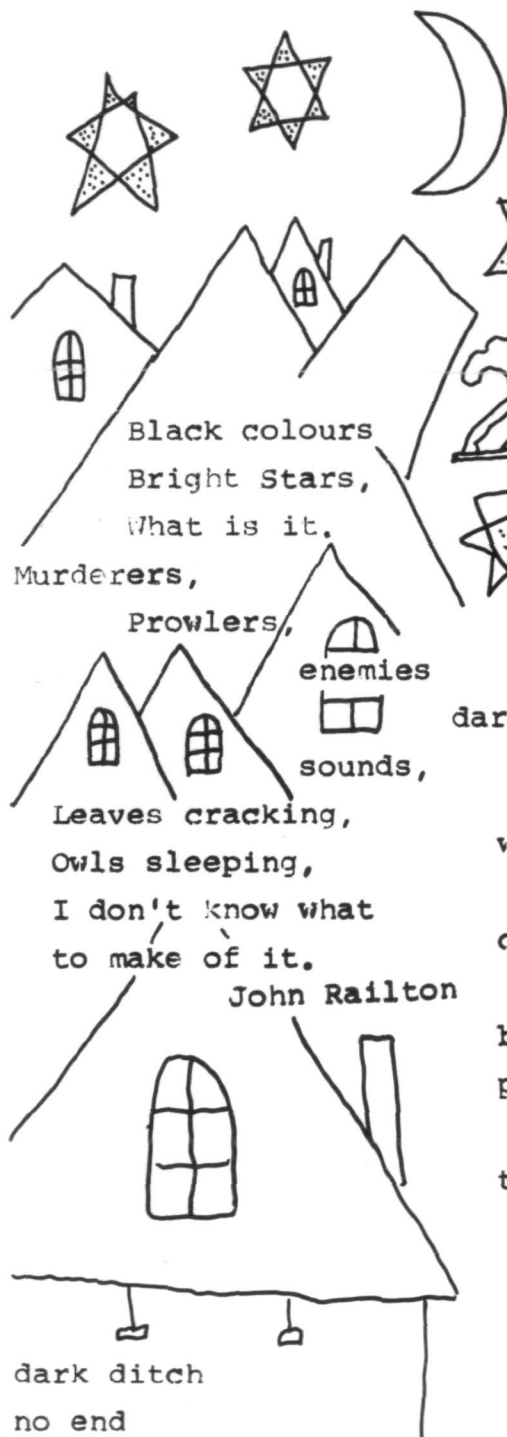

Football Cake

The machines smelt oily and smelly. The cones smell nicer than the machines.
William.

The cone was made on one machine. It had a smell of waffles.
Dominic.

The icecream was cold on our hands, but the cone was hot because it had just come out of the oven.

darkness,

Night is when the sky is dark and when we sleep and snore.

You can't see the sizzling sun, only the

Then slowly slowly through the night, those twinkling stars move on.

EXAMS

by Edward Rush

There he was, a picture of gloom,
Sweltering under the summer
sun,

His mind as empty as
a hollow oak tree,
Eye-boring a hole through that mystifying question.

But wait, there is something in his mind
of yellow sand and
ten feet waves he dreams,
also of flying canes,
ear splitting yells,
but what can he do?
he asks, while a tear
rolls down his pale cheek.

MARS

by James Barrie

I was on my way to Mars
Hurtling past sun and stars
Earth far below
And looked it needed a mow.
When I landed
I handed (on my radio)
A request to Earth
To say that I have landed.
I took a few rock samples
Then returned to good old Earth.

SKYLAB

by Rohan Birchmore.

When Skylab spun
around the earth,
and decided to come down in Perth;
The Aussies then
gathered the bits
that were scattered,
and asked N.A.S.A.
"What was it worth?"

MARS

By Roderick Ruinen

Why is the planet Mars so red?
Maybe it had measles when it was in bed.
Maybe it fell in a puddle of blood?
Or did it fall in red mud?
Or in a red liquid flood?
What do you think that happened to Mars?
The Planet that lays in the stars.

THE TIGER

BY Ian Crooke

The tiger is strong, sleek and handsome, but where on earth or space did it get it's stripes. Maybe it had a fight with an elephant and it gave him a black body instead of a black eye.

Perhaps it leaned against a wet black cage, or it was once all black and could only wash off some of the black, and the stripes were left as they are now.

Perhaps the tiger had stripes from the beginning of evolution, nobody knows.

APPOLO 13

by Iain Marshall

Appolo 13 took off like a baked bean,
They had so much food and they were in such a good mood.

They circled the sun,
It looked like good fun.

But when they saw the guage
They returned straight away.
When they landed in the ocean
They caused a commotion.

Deception

by Jamie Fletcher

How would you like to be a puppet dangling on a string?
Being manipulated by a man who pretends that you can sing.

Children sit down in front
of you,
And laugh and scream and cry,
And all the time they think
it's you,
And not that other guy.

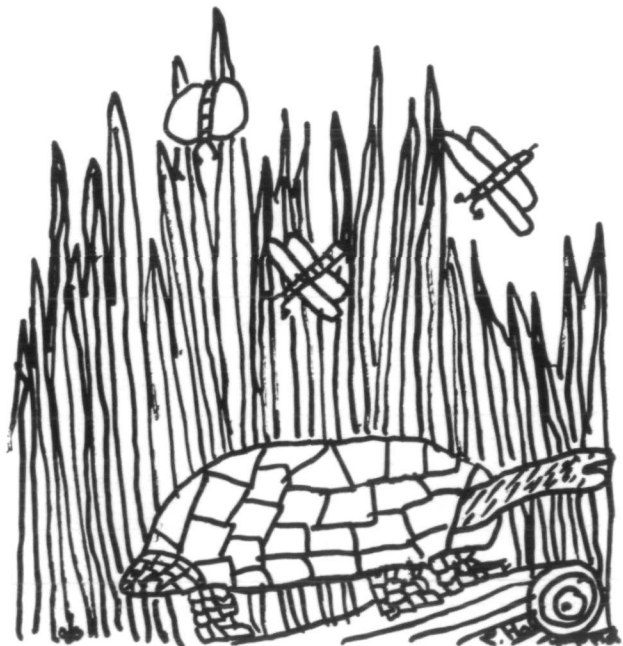

HOW THE TURTLE GOT IT'S SHELL

by Jamie Venerys

One night an aboriginal tribe was dancing around a fire. They had been going so fast that they got dizzy and fell flat to the ground.

Somehow, a turtle came up to the fire, and as the aboriginal fell down, they kicked the turtle into the lake of clay and it was so sticky that the poor turtle could not get out until a little boy found the turtle and helped him out.

The clay was so hard that it formed a shell and that is why the turtle has a shell today.

WHAT THE ANIMALS HAVE TO SAY

by Chris. Johnson

How would you like to live in the zoo?
The smell in here it smells of you.

The human smell is really bad,
It stinks in here, it's really sad.

You take us from our home land,
And stick us in this dirty sand.

No trees, no grass, not even a lake,
Why do you do this for heaven's sake?

The people come and stare at me,
And point and say hey look at he.

J. BIRCHMORE

TALKING TO THE ANIMALS

by S. Forgan

Hello animals in the zoo,
How terrible to be like you.

Stepping in lots of muck,
I wouldn't like that - Er yuck.

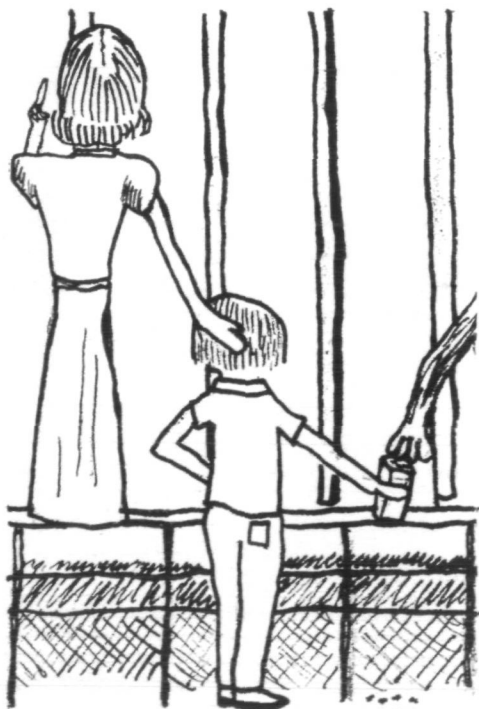

Walking on those concrete floors,
You will probably ruin all your paws.

You would like to get free one day,
And run and run far away.

But now I have to say goodbye,
Though I'll come back and say hi.

All my friends at the zoo,
Monkeys, Zebras, and Lions too.

They all hope one day to get free,
So appreciate how you're free like me.

"Ooh! It's so smelly and dim."

MY LIFE by Jeremy Rae

I was born in Braintree, in England. The date I was born was at 7.15 at night 23rd September 1967. I lived in England for two years.

We shifted to Zambia in Africa. It wasn't safe there. So we moved down to Cape Town in South Africa and five years later we went to New Zealand.

In New Zealand I went to school. I was in Grade 1 and at school the people used to play a lot of hockey. Then we flew to Melbourne and then to Perth. We moved up into the hills.

We now live in Wattelup, on a ten acre block with a meat chicken farm. Now I am twelve. When I grow up I would like to be a vet. and a person who takes care of animals.

Kevin Fletcher

ALL ABOUT ME

Famous people who write about themselves are called autobiographers. I am not a very important person but I hope some day that I will be a famous person so the people will remember me.

My name is Patrick Ng. I was born on 29th December 1967 in Malacca, West Malaysia. I was born in Malacca because all my sisters were born there and my grandmother was living there.

When I was about 3 years old I went to kindergarten. After I finished kindergarten I shifted to a new school.

Now I am 11 but when I was 9 I migrated to Western Australia. When I came here I was in a government school in Karrinyup. I made a lot of friends there but now I am in Christchurch Grammar School.

Year Six life, be in it

MY LIFE by D. Lane

My name is Dominic Lane. I was born in Wales, July 9th at 10.20.

I have had a lot of shifts in my life. First we lived in Trearddur Bay, Anglesey, then at Nawton, Yorkshire, then in Cuckfield, Sussex, then near Essexvale, Rhodesia, then Parramatta, N.S.W., and finally Peppermint Grove, 33 Irvine Street.

The schools I have been to are as follows: kindergarten, Burnside, Whitestone, The King's School, Essexvale, C.C.G.S.

I have been on a few trips overseas, such as England and lastly Africa.

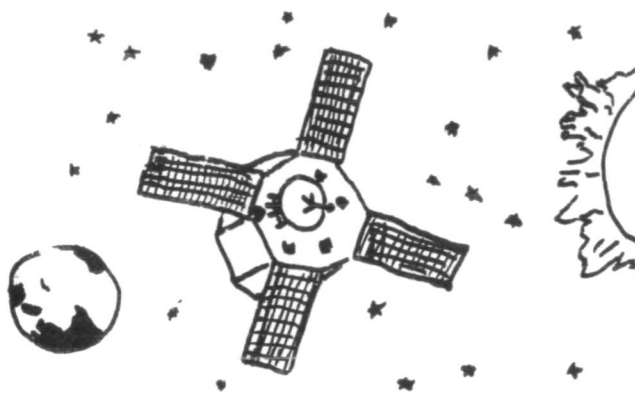

I am now 11 years old. I now live in W.A.

When I grow up I would like to be a vet and help animals.

David Canning's father sent our class a piece of Skylab which he found on his property.

SKYLAB.

by Neil Bowman

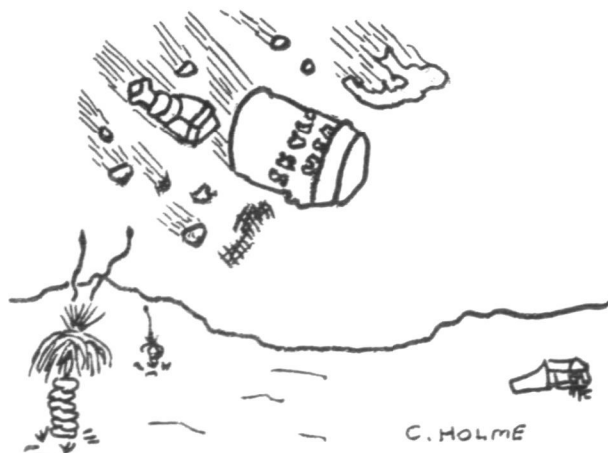

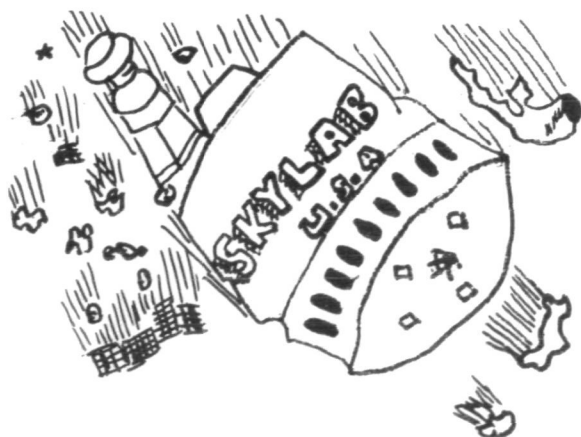

It picked a small, remote town in the centre of Australia.
The time did not matter, although it was well into the night.
The townsfolk asleep, they did not know it was to break up over them, they did not worry, they did not stir.

Several loud booms heralded its coming as it lit up the sky with a kaleidoscope of magnificent colours.

Through the night it continued its booming and breaking up, terrifying everyone aware of what was happening.

For most people it was over before it started. It had spread itself over the vast, barren land, providing a challenge to all who wished to search for it.

Many fruitless hours were spent searching, but for many nothing was found, nothing was gained. Only memories, memories that Skylab had fallen.

THE ADMIRAL'S CUP

By Richard Tunbridge

There is a story I am told,
Of sailors big and bold.

And they fight the seas; for a cup,
Though the journey is long and rough.

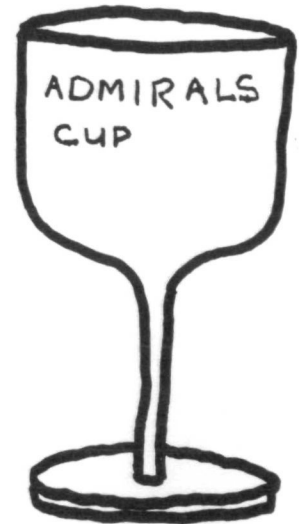

"Ragamufin", "Siska" and the speedie
"Police Car",
Are among the many who sail afar.

They come from countries all over the world,
Only to be tossed and hurled.

Many die and many live,
For that is the sacrifice many give.

They are drawn to the ocean, by an unknown force,
But with God's help; they find course.

Some call it sport, and some call it madness,
But being on the sea to them is gladness.

FOOTBALL

by Adam Tetlow

Watch them leap,
Watch them fly,
Watch them come down,
With a thump on the ground.
There's a few, I'll tell you about,
Like Malcolm Blight who flies like a kite Hawk Hudson who, swoops and soars through the sky.
And Laurie Fowler who flies like a Falcon.

THE PARMELIA RACE

by Andrew Patrick

A long ocean race is a test of endurance,

The crews must have skill, the skipper assurance.

For those who sail in the Parmelia Race,

Must travel the world's most treacherous face.

The sea can be tossful, big and rough,

But luckily the crewmen
are brave and tough.

Sometimes the wind may rave,

Which could sink a yacht to it's grave.

From Plymouth to Fremantle
for many a week,

The end of their journey they will seek.

THE OWL

by Scott King

The Owl's mysterious eyes,
See a mouse scurrying by.

Slowly, but surely he flies
from his tree,

Now he knows what his next meal will be.

As it grows lighter hour by hour,

The wise old owl rests upon his bower,

The busy city starts to hum,
but for the owl, sleep has come.

Sunday Fun

by Roger McAlwey

Skurfing is a sport. You lie down on a surf board while your Dad drives the boat. You hold a rope from the boat and you get towed along by it. You can stand up too. It is great fun. You need a fast boat. Sometimes you fall off when the waves are big. We usually do it down at our beach place. Skurfing is good practice for when you go surfing in the sea.

A Day I Remember by Jamie Mellar.

Jamie

One hot day at home I went for a ride on my motor bike. It was hot. When I was far away from home in the bush I stopped. I got off. I looked around then I got on my bike. The bike wouldn't start. I gave it ten hard kicks and it still wouldn't start, so I walked home. I followed my tracks back but I lost my tracks and I was still in the bush. But Dad had told me that if I got lost to keep north. I walked north till I ran into a fence. Then I followed the fence until I came to a windmill. Then I went along the road. At last I came to the homestead. Later Dad went out to get the bike.
